In the name of Allah the Compassionate, the Merciful

The army of Iran is under U.S. domination, We shall reject this army, and We shall restore it's real role and task of defending the country.

Imam Khomeini (May God bless his soul)

Our army is in a parasitic situation, from the military standpoint of view. An army run by the American army to serve U.S. interests. 45 thousand, 50 thousand, and some claim that 60 thousand American advisors, American freeloaders are presently among us and in our country. They have built for themselves, so many bases. Our country is under military occupation, Americans have taken over our country.

Imam Khomeini (May God bless his soul).

The presence of American advisors is a result of the Iranian regime's anti-islamic and anti-nationalistic policies, and besides putting a heavy financial burden on the nation, They are enjoying such an authority over our army and the country's fate that the honore, And prestige of our army's senior and junior officers have been desecrated. In dealing with those cases, We shall act on the basis of an independent and free policy, void of the (foreign) powers' interventions.

Imam Khomeini (May God bless his soul).

One of the things that has to be independent in a country, neither carrying out foreigners' instructions nor allowing for their interferences, is its army. The army's independence allows it to be under the control of its respective nation, preventing foreign interference in its affairs. Independence contradicts affiliation or subjugation. Is the army independent now? Or is it being run by about 45 thousand American advisors.

Imam Khomeini (May God bless his soul)

The early stages of qajar dynasty's rule was a prelude to the presence of foreign military advisors in the Iranian army. With the ever growing threat of war between Iran and Russia, "Fathali shah Qajar", who was completely blind to international politics, resorted to "Napoleon Bonaparte" for assistance. Napoleon, engaged in a war with the Russian Tsar, dispatched a group of his military advisors headed by general "GARDANE", to Iran. Upon arrival, the group embarked on organizing and training the Iranian army. But as a result of a peace treaty signed by Napoleon and the Tsar of Russia, and the issuance of an ultimatum by Britain, the French military advisors' activities came to an abrupt standstill. Then the British advisors took up the case of training the Iranian troops, carried on for sometimes, but did not go beyond taking preliminary steps.

Later when "Nasser-aldin shah" another Qajar ruler was departing for Europe via Russia, the Russian Cossaks carried out a pompous parade which he reviewed with great interest. As a result he urged the Russian military advisors to assist in the formation of a similar force in Iran. The foolish move born out of caprice, caused the creation of a bunch of troops that left their serious marks on the fate of Iran.

Run and controlled by Russian army officers, the Iranian Cossaks played a determining role at critical junctures of Iran's history. They fought the constitutional revolution, fired their guns at the national consultative assembly, suppressed the mujahidin, and established the lesser despotic rule over the nation.

Following the Soviet Union's October Revolution, British military officers came to control Iranian Cossaks, and by setting up Reza-Khan, a Cossak officer, prepared the stage for the 1920 black coup d'etat which was followed by over half a century of western domination and influence over Iran.

In August 19, 1953, a former Cossak officer, and a ranking figure in Iran's new army, "Fadhollah Zahidi", staged a coup d'etat which laid the corner-stone for 25 years of America's illegitimate domination over the country.

World War II

In September 1941, British and Red armies invaded and occupied Iran. The U.S. had not entered WWII at that time, but in December 1941 when Hitler declared war against it, American armed forces officially joined hands with the Allies.

Iran was chosen as an equipment and arms-supply bridge to U.S.S.R. The Allies used Iranian roads and railway to provide the Soviet forces fighting Hitler's army, with military hardware.

Chaos ruled Iran as a result of its occupation by the Allies, practically leaving the nation's southern roads and railway under the British forces' control, and its Northern section under red army domination. But due to manpower shortage, the British occupiers were not able to utilize Iran's railroad appropriately.

U.S. forces' arrival in Iran

A short while after Iran's occupation by British forces and the red army, the colonial government of Britain, without seeking Iran's consent, called on the U.S. to assist her in providing the Soviets with arms and ammunition through Iranian territory. In response, American president "F. D. ROOSEVELT" urged Britain to leave the Americans with the full responsibility of military hardware transportation to the Soviet Union via Iran. Britain's prime minister "CHURCHILL" welcomed and embraced the idea.

That set the stage for the arrival of the first contingent of American troops called "IRANIAN MILITARY MISSION" in Iran in December 1942. The so-called mission mainly comprised of U.S. army engineers, completely replaced the British by the end of 1942 to carry out munitions supply operation and running the affairs of Iran's railroads in the South. All of this occurred while neither the government of Iran was kept informed of the case, nor the Shah who had come to power with the Allies' full support.

The "Iranian Military Mission" later took on the title of "The Persian Gulf Service' Command" which changed to Persian Gulf Command" in early 1943, being the sole party responsible for the Iranian railways operation and transportation of arms and ammunition between the Persian Gulf and Tehran. A large number of American troops were involved in the operation on Iranian soil, reportedly reaching 30,000 in January 1943. A case which was based on no agreement signed or even negotiated between the governments of Iran and the U.S.

U.S. British collaboration in Iran

The Tehran-based minister plenipotentiary of Britain "Sir Reader Bulard" was the first person to bring up the issue of the employment of foreign advisors, for the Iranian government (during WWII). Bulard initiated the move in person and on January 4, 1942 urged Iran's premier to employ foreign advisors. On 5 February 1942, he informed his respective foreign office that the Iranian premier had most welcomed the idea.

"Wallace. Murray", a high ranking member of the U.S. Department of state had later commented on the point, saying that the move was of special significance to the U.S. administration as far as its short and long term policies were concerned.

When "Qavam" became Iran's prime minister, he declared close and intimate co-operation with the U.S. as the main principle of his cabinet's policies, and was more than willing to hire American advisors for Iran. Iran's politicians believed the U.S. to be that same "Third Force" that could back up Iran against Britain and the Soviet Union. They thought the U.S. could not harbor territorial ambitions over Iran because it was geographically very far from the country. More important than that, the dependent and free-mason Iranian statesmen wanted to enjoy the benefits of the United States program of "lend-lease" through the employment of American advisors. On the other hand the Americans had, up to then, left a good image in the world.

The U.S. and Britain's compromise over Iran, to a certain extent exposed the core of the former's policies in relation to Iran, even after the Tehran Conference of 1943, the U.S. decided to effectuate a comprehensive policy with respect to Iran, by consolidating the country's political and economic situation which was of "immeasurable strategic importance" to the U.S. administration. But the application of such a policy called for a complete control or domination over Iran's economic political and military affairs, through which it could bring about all of those developments and changes it deemed fit as far as the nation's political and economic situations were concerned. But America faced a dilemma, since such practices were, until then, meant to be exercised with respect to colonies or semi-colonies, and the United States' traditional foreign policy prevented the application of such controls or policies. This prompted the U.S. government to take hold of those controls indirectly and achieve those illegitimate objectives through the stationing in Iran of American advisors to enable them to control the nation's military, police and economic forces.

"The U.S. Military Mission"

On March 10, 1942, the U.S. government declared Iran eligible for obtaining American assistance through its special "lend-lease" program. Upon the issuance of the United States official statement, Iranian statesmen responded by calling on the U.S. to provide their government with military advisors that could organize the Iranian army and gendarmerie. Iran's Washington-based minister plenipotentiary sent a memo to the state Department on March 20 1942, declaring that Iran was prepared to employ American military advisors for its ministry of War. The state Department very gladly took up the case, considering it would create an opportunity as a result of which it could expand its influence in Iran, thereby securing and guaranteeing its interest throughout the country.

American assistance poured in and far exceeded the extent of the Iranian government's request. Two military missions were dispatched to restructure and renovate Iranian military organization. The first mission was headed by general "John Greely" whose position was later occupied by “Riedly” another general, and the second group was headed by “H.N Schwarzkopf” a colonel, specifically posted to work on the organizational aspect of Iranian gendarmerie. The two were sent to Tehran on September 2, 1942 to see to it that the country’s army and gendarmerie were properly re-organised.

Former police chief of New Jersey, and employee of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (F.B.I), Schwarzkopf began to work as chief of gendarmerie. After several months during which he had evaluated the situation, making unofficial recommendations regarding his activities, Iran and the U.S. launched official negotiations on the mission’s legal status.

On November 13, 1943, a contract was signed concerning the mission that was charged with the task of restructuring Iranian army, and later became known with the abbreviation “ARMISH”. Another contract was signed on November 27, 1943 that dealt with the American military group also known as “GENMISH”, working with the Iranian gendarmerie. According to the first contract, the Iranian army-based head of the U.S. military mission was authorised to submit to Iran’s ministry of war, his recommendations regarding Iranian army officers’ recruitment, dismissal, transfer, or even cases of investigations. The second was even more offending, allowing the mission’s chief to act on his own as far as the above mentioned points were concerned.

The two military groups’ stationing in Iran, added new dimensions to American presence in this country. The reason why the Americans agreed to dispatch their missions to Iran, and the latter’s filing of a request was the fact that the U.S. State Department authorities believed they could keep Iran’s army under constant watch and surveillance, and prevent any movement that might erupt within its ranks. They could also use Iranian military and police forces to maintain internal order and security needed to facilitate shipment of arms to the Soviet Union, preventing Nazi and communist infiltration into Iran, as well.

The government of Iran also called on the U.S. to dispatch another group of advisors to restructure police forces. In response, the U.S. sent a non-military individual called “L.S. Timmerman”, who was to serve in Iran for a period of two years that began with his arrival in the country. This police expert was charged with the task of restructuring police force’s administrative and organizational aspects, the establishment of police academy, structuring the country’s prison system, and reviewing laws and regulations that dealt with the force. Timmerman was active in Iran between 1942 and 1944, but his sudden death on May 20, 1944, was an end to his mission, with no one else to take up his job.

Another group called “U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group” or “MAAG” joined the first two missions several years later, which came into being through the signing of the “Mutual Defence Assistance” agreement. While the “ARMISH” group of advisors were “charged with training a foreign government’s armed forces”, the “MAAG” advisors were to maintain and use those equipments provided to the recipients through the United States Military Assistance Program”. The “MAAG” advisors on the other hand, were to render “training assistance” as well, co-operating with “ARMISH” from the administrative point, employing and utilising the personnel of Iran’s ground, air and naval forces.

“MAAG” members were responsible with ordering, receiving and delivering military aids to Iranian officials, also co-ordinating the distribution of services rendered, while making sure the equipment and arms were used solely for the purpose stipulated as the main cause of their delivery. “MAAG” and “ARMISH” groups’ activities merged when they concerned Iranian army’s training courses. Their activities included designing and evaluation of Iranian armed forces’ organization and restructuring, reviewing Iranian military academies, training courses, preparing training and drilling courses on the use and maintenance of delivered material, and filing of reports on the efficiency of military aids rendered to Iran. Every year, “MAAG”, prepared “country statements” complementing them with special reports, that concerned Iranian army’s capabilities, the impact of military aids, and the related comments and evaluations.

The Advisors’ Training Role:

The U.S. Had decided to build the Iranian military system after its American model. First by structuring the military and the officer academies' training system on the basis of the American system, and secondly by dispatching Iranian officers and commissioners to the U.S., to take up training courses and become familiar with American culture. Military advisors played an outstanding role in both cases. The first was completely their responsibility, also playing a determining role as far as the officers' selection for the second was concerned. And when the officers who had completed their training courses in the U.S. returned home, the advisors were charged with the task of providing them with new positions and ranks.

On 1.5. 1948 the first group of Iranian Air Force's commissioned and non-commissioned officers left Iran for the U.S. to attend special training courses. Besides those Iranian police officers who were sent to the U.S. for training, by 1947, about 11000 officers and military personnel had completed those courses. In addition, the U.S. had signed an agreement with the Zionist Regime to get its army to train Iranian officers. And when they returned home, ARMIISH-MAAG was in close contact with them. Mosaddegh's collapse, was one major achievement of this strategy, since the U.S.—educated Iranian officers played a significant role in the affair.

The Revival of Capitulation:

Increased reliance of the shah's regime on the U.S., was tantamount to a rise in the latter's illegitimate demands. In 1962, the U.S. called on Iran to grant its military advisors and their family members, political immunity, so that Iranian courts would not be able to put on trial those that might commit crimes. A superpower was indeed seeking the establishment of "Capitulation" for its nationals. The pahlavi regime considering the negation of Capitulation as its major accomplishment, was now on a crossroad. It could not, on the one hand, turn down the U.S. request, being also aware, as a result of bitter experiences with Capitulation in Iran's history, that its revival was both an obvious embarrassment for the regime, and of dangerous consequences. But it ultimately had to positively respond to its master's call. This was when Imam Khomeini (May God bless his soul) entered the scene again, exposing the pahlavi regime's treason, through a profound speech he rendered. Finding itself in danger, the regime exiled the Imam into Turkey as its final alternative. But time proved this last choice to be of no benefit to the affiliated pahlavi regime.

The Number of Advisors:

U.S. military advisors gradually increased in number between 1942 and 1971, but the rise was not significant. In 1964, U.S. president Nixon declared his doctrine of arming U.S. supported regimes, which necessitated the sale of further military hardware to such countries including Iran. In the meantime, Britain announced that she was pulling her forces out of the East of the Suez Canal and the Persian Gulf. With the withdrawal of British forces, the shah decided to play the role of the region's police. As a result of oil price hikes, the shah embarked on making huge U.S. arms purchases, following which large numbers of American military advisors poured into the country to teach Iranian military personnel how they could use those arms and equipment.

Military advisors taught Iranians, the sophisticated arms systems application methods, isolating them from technical know-how. Some of the systems, such as the electronic control ones, were not placed even at the disposal of Iranians, and were directly applied by the advisors themselves. Consequently, the Iranian army personnel did not acquire the related knowledge and remained ignorant as far as technicalities were concerned. The advisors, thus, maintained their domination over the army of Iran, and on the economic front, allowed for the employment of a large number of American citizens who were directly paid by the Iranian government.

According to a U.S. senate report, the number of American advisors- 16 thousand in 1972- reached 24 thousand in 1976. The same report had indicated that, as a result of huge American arms purchases, the number of U.S. citizens residing in Iran had to reach 60 thousand by the year 1980, which meant a yearly increase of 10 thousand.

In 1977 the total budget spent on Iranian military personnel was about 140 billion rials (around 2 billion dollars), while money spent on U.S. military advisors based in Iran in that same year, was estimated at 170 billion rials or about 2.4 billion U.S. dollars. Military agreements signed by the two countries stipulated that Iran was to pay for all such expenses.

Advisors' Interference in Iran's Political Developments.

Despite their consultative role, the U.S. advisors illegitimately interfered in political developments at critical junctures of Iran's history, either changing the course of events, or provoking the army to resist the will of Iran's Muslim nation. The 1952 coup d'etate in Iran, revial of Capitulation, the 1978 army resistance against the Islamic Revolution, are clear examples of those advisors' intervention in the country's internal politics.

In his book titled "Mission To Tehran", general "Huyser" admits, that at the hight of the Islamic Revolution in 1978, American military advisors were particularly active in provoking the army to take up arms against the nation's move. They were specifically active in launching a psychological warfare versus the Islamic Revolution, with their final move being, the coup attempt in winter 1978 headed by chief of advisors general "GAST", which failed, thanks to God almighty, and the prophetic leadership of Imam Khomini (may God bless his soul), culminating in the revolution's victory on February 11 of the same year.

After the Islamic revolution's victory, the provisional government tried to allow for the continued presence of American military advisors in Iran, and even make them more active in Iran's military affairs, yet the decisive approach taken by the nation's leader, closed down the crime and treason riddled case of Iran-based American military advisors*

Parts of this introduction were taken from the following books:*

1- Iran and the Great Powers in world war II: by Iraj Zowghi ph.d.

2- The U.S. Influence in Iran by Ibrahim Sandjar ph.d.

A series of documents were discovered in the U.S. spy den dealing with the "American military advisory in Iran". The large number of documents, depict the history of Amreican military advisors' presence in Iran right from the begining up to the fourth of November 1979. (They are of course not all the documents relating to this issue, since some were sent out of Iran in the post-Islamic Revolution-victory-era, by Americans). The series would undoubtedly make several books. The first volume includes documents that concern the advisors' arrival in Iran up to the year 1964. This volume has three chapters, each dealing with a specific time frame, which is briefly discussed in a prologue to every chapter.

It is hoped that this series would expose part of America's illegal interference in Iran's army and its internal politics.

These salaries will be paid in twelve equal monthly instalments and any portion of the monthly salary of any member of the mission who may so request will be payable

In the past we considered ourselves incapable of doing anything. We believed our army needed advisors from America or Europe, if it were to become an effective army.

Imam Khomeini (may God bless his soul) Jan. 20. 1980

The first chapter includes 27 documents that cover the period between October 1943 to May 1950. Twenty of them deal with the format and the main texts of agreements signed by Iran and the U.S. on the employment of American military advisors for Iran's army and gendarmerie, as well as amendments to the agreements. The unfortunate fact is that the Iranian government merely signed the agreements that were completely developed by the U.S. to serve its interests in the best possible manner.

Two of the documents deal with the Soviet government's position versus the active presence of American military advisors within the rank and file of the Iranian army, with the remaining five covering negotiations and the context of "Mutual Defence Assistance" agreement between the governments of Iran and America.

in dollars in America and the rest in rials (at the official rate) in Iran. The salaries of the members of the mission are exempt from any charges and taxes which are levied now or which may be levied in the future whether by the Government or by administrative or political divisions subordinate to the Government. And if at this time or during the life of the agreement a new tax should be assessed which should apply to the salaries of these members, it should be paid by the Ministry of War in such a manner that the amount of salary allocated to each member should be received by him without deduction.

The round trip traveling expenses of the members of the mission during the war will be paid by the American Government and after the war by Iran in case the contract is extended. In any event if the members of the mission should desire to bring their families to Iran, the traveling expenses of their wives and children will be paid by the Iranian Government.

(d) The Government is authorized to determine and put into effect the limits of powers and duties and other terms of the employment of the elements of the military mission after consultation with the Ministry of War and in concurrence with the Government of the United States of America.

This law consisting of one article was approved by the Majlis on Aban 1, 1322 (October 24, 1943).

large number facts attesting Amer. Mil advisors play decisive role Iran in questions concerning armed forces
Iran and are active in direction tending transform territory Iran into mil strategic base USA.

(1) Under leadership Amer mil advisers Iran army is reequipped with same type Amer arms with which US re-equips Turkish army, arms for Iran army being delivered from USA on credit.

(2) At beginning 1947 Amer Military Adviser General
Grov worked out plan for re-organization Iran army. Plan approved by Shah became basis for organization armed forces Iran.

(3) Working under General Staff Iran is special committee including Amer advisers for redrafting all fundamental codes Iran army on American models.

(4) Amer advisers had worked out plan for re-organizing Iran's war industry providing for re-equipment Iran war plants on basis Amer technology so re-equipped plants could produce and repair arms Amer type.

(5) At request Amer military advisers and under their leadership large airfield built in city RUM, equipped with American machines. Judging from size airfield and special interests Amer advisers in building field it is obviously intended not for Iran airforce.
In this connection one cannot but note fact Amer reps have built underground gasoline storage facilities in southern Iran.

(6) In recent months there has been mass inundation Iran by various Amer advisers and other Amer reps; American reps settling down not only in army but other organizations, institutions particularly concerning civil air fleet, "Iranair" Airplane Corporation, etc. Amer officers occupy virtually leading posts in institution.

(7) One cannot also fail note restoration former Amer mil. settlement and four barracks in Tehran and their transfer to Amer mil mission from which it follows that arrival in Iran of considerable contingents Amer officers, men expected.

Note also produces actual proof activity Amer mil mission in Iran may create danger to borders USSR. Thus for example fortifications along Soviet border being built under direction Amer officers Iran; there is special mission attached General Staff and working with participation Amer advisers, drafting plans and directing construction new airfields, improvement existing ones; greatest attention paid building airfields in areas bordering on USSR. Of late trips and flights Amer advisers into areas bordering USSR have become more frequent with alleged purpose of inspecting Iran army and police units, whereas in reality trips, flights Amer advisers are used for photographic reconnaissance and military scrutiny Iran border etc.

Note declares all above indicated facts incompatible with principles good-neighborly relations proclaimed by Soviet-Iran treaty Feb. 26, 1921 and Sov govt expects Iranian govt take immediate steps rectify existing abnormal situation."

Excellency: §

I have the honor to refer to our conversation two weeks ago regarding the question of cooperation between the Iranian authorities and the American Mission to the Iranian Gendarmerie. I have now received instructions from my Government on this subject and am glad to be able to give you my Government's point of view as follows:

When the existing agreement for the establishment of the United States Mission to the Iranian Gendarmerie was drafted, in 1943, the Iranian authorities requested the inclusion of a provision (Article 20) requiring the Chief of the United States Mission to be appointed to act, under the Minister of Interior, as head of the Iranian Gendarmerie. The Cabinet officers at that time who were specifically concerned with the drafting were His Excellency Ali Asghar Hekmat, Minister of Justice, and His Excellency Saed Mohammad Tadayon, Minister of Interior.

My Government accepted the Iranian Government's request in this regard because of the American desire to do whatever it could to meet the Iranian Government's needs and wishes.

It has come to my Government's attention that the new commander of the Iranian Gendarmerie, General Kupal, has received instructions to act as sole commander of the Gendarmerie and therefore to disregard the provisions of Article 20, although this article, as stated above, was included in the original agreement at the direct request and I believe insistence of the Iranian authorities.

My Government now wishes to be informed whether the Iranian Government desires to abrogate the agreement of November 27, 1943. If so, the American military personnel detailed to the Ministry of Interior will be directed by me to terminate their services forthwith.

If the Iranian Government desires the Government of the United States to detail American military personnel to the Iranian Government to act in a purely advisory capacity, my Government is prepared to consider such a request. Favorable action by my Government in this regard, however, would depend upon a satisfactory explanation of the unilateral action by the Iranian Government in abrogating the provisions of Article 20, and upon a clarification of the proposed duties and responsibilities of the American officers who might be detailed in future to the Gendarmerie.

If the Iranian Government desires the deletion of Article 20 in the existing agreement, this might be accomplished by an exchange of notes.

It is to be assumed that the Iranian decision whether to request a resumption of the activities of the Mission will be made in Iran's own national interest and not because of extraneous foreign consideration.

My Government would welcome an early indication of the Iranian Government's desires in the foregoing regard.

Accept Excellency, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration.

Memorandum

Subject: Grow Mission Contract

April 26, 1948

On October 6, 1947, Ambassador Allen and Mr. Mahmoud Djam, at that time Minister of War, signed a revised agreement covering the United States Military Mission with the Iranian Army.

The former agreement dating from 1943 had not expired, but had been renegotiated as a result of instructions received in late August from the Department of State. These instructions had referred to a resolution passed by the United Nations General Assembly in 1946 at the instigation of the U.S.S.R. whereby all members were called upon to report to the United Nations any instances in which they maintained troops on the territory of any other member nation and to file with the organization the agreements covering the stationing of such troops. The Department's telegram stated that (unlike the 1943 agreement covering the Gendarmerie Mission) the Military Mission agreement had never been made public and that it might prove embarrassing to do so in view of the broad authority granted the Mission. The Embassy was accordingly instructed to negotiate a new agreement as soon as possible for presentation at the September session of the General Assembly.

General Grow had already been discussing with the Minister of War the possible terms of a new contract, as it was felt in our War Department there were a number of ways in which the existing contract could be improved upon. The negotiation of the new draft was accordingly not a matter of any great difficulty.

As stated above, the revised agreement was signed on October 6, by Mr. Allen and Mr. Djam, who had been designated by Prime Minister Qavam for this purpose. Qavam also informed Mr. Allen that the Government had authority under the basic law of 1943 to renegotiate the agreement without referring it to the Majlis.

At the time, our reasons for wishing to renegotiate the agreement were fully explained to the Iranian Government, which gave its consent to the publication of the new agreement. It was understood here that it would be released by the Department at the time of its submission by the Department to the Secretary General of the United Nations.

Nothing more was heard until late December, when press dispatches from Lake Success carried an announcement that the agreement had been signed on October 6. Apparently, the State Department had not made any release to the press, which had learned about the agreement in a routine way from the U.N. Secretariat. The announcement caused quite a sensation here, and allegations were made in the press and in the Majlis that the Government was concluding secret agreements with foreign powers and also that it had exceeded its authority in not submitting the Military Mission agreement to the Majlis for ratification. The furor was added to when the Soviet Embassy, which presumably had received the text of the agreement from Lake Success via Moscow, published it in full in its daily Russian and Persian news bulletin.

The Embassy did all that it could to explain the reasons for the renegotiation of the contract and to stress that there was no desire on anyone's part to keep the matter a secret. Some damage, however, had already been done, and it was against this background that the Soviet notes of January 31, and subsequent regarding the activities of the Mission were sent to the Iranian Government.

On March 1, 1948, the Department telegraphed us that the Iranian Embassy in Washington had unexpectedly proposed the renegotiation of certain clauses in the agreement of October 6. These changes are substantially the same as those proposed to us recently by the Iranian Foreign Office, and you are familiar with the instructions we have received from the Department in this connection.

Exoelleny: §

I have the honor, with reference to the conversations which we have recently had relative to the United States Military Mission with the Imperial Iranian Gendarmerie, to inform your Excellency that my Government is transferring the present Chief of Mission, Brigadier General H. Norman Schwarzkopf, to other important duties. It is anticipated that he will be leaving Iran on or about June 20.

In view of the stage of organization which the Imperial Gendarmerie has attained as a result of General Schwarzkopf's leadership of the mission, the Government of the United States proposes that, if agreeable to the Government of Iran, Article 20 of the agreement covering the assignment of the Gendarmerie Mission be amended upon General Schwarzkopf's departure to provide that the command function now exercised by the Chief of Mission be deleted. The Mission would thereby become advisory only.

I shall look forward to learning at an early date the views of the Iranian Government with regard to this proposal.

Accept, Exoelleny, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration.

Milatt and I lunched privately with High Staff Officer today. He says Razin, Sov Milatt, before his return to Russia made representations to him identical with those made to PriMin by Sov Amb (Bmtel 924 Aug 5).

Razin said in substance: "We are dispersing our industry all over USSR in anticipation of hostilities. These preparations are entirely adequate save in one respect. We cannot disperse Baku. The vast petroleum output of Baku is essential to all parts of Russia. We are not afraid of Iranian Army as such but we are afraid of American attack on Baku through Iran. Therefore, we cannot permit the Iranian Army to be integrated with US Army. The Arms Credit Program must therefore be cancelled and the American military advisers must go. If action in this sense is not taken by Iran on basis our representations, we shall be obliged to use other methods."

I remarked to HSO that the conclusion of Razin's remarks sounded like a threat. Did Sadjikov similarly threaten PriMin? HSO replied that identical threat was made to PriMin.

HSO conveyed no impression of perturbation over situation but obviously seeks to use it as pressure on us for more tank ammunition under arms program. HSO has received anguished telegram on this subject from Shah, and states Shah will desire to see me soonest after his return in order take up this subject.

In conclusion, HSO states Sov propaganda most active. Wherever bread shortage Sovs agitate villages alleging wheat and flour grains have been sent USA in order pay arms program.

The Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs presents its compliments to the Embassy of the United States of America and has the honor to state that inasmuch as the agreement for employment of the American Advisory Mission in the Imperial Ministry of War expires on March 20, 1949 (Esfand 29, 1327) and as provided by Article 3 of the said Agreement in case the Imperial Government should desire to extend (the period of) their service, it should express its desire in writing before September 21, 1948 (Shahrivar 30, 1327), it is, therefore stated that, as the Embassy has already been informed verbally, the Imperial authorities are, in principle, in accord with the extension of the said Agreement for a period of one more year as of March 20, 1949 (Esfand 29, 1327).

Of course this concurrence is a matter of principle and of a general nature and the amendments (of the agreement which are under discussion will be made by mutual consent.

Excerpt from Memorandum

Subject: Army Mission Contract September 25, 1948
To : The American Ambassador, Tehran

"1. On 23 September General Razmara informed me that he had a long discussion with the Shah concerning our contract. The Shah stated that he would ask the Foreign Office to ask the U. S. Government for renewal of the contract with two changes. The background of the request for changes is that the Majlis must OK the contract. The present contract was signed while the Majlis was in session but was not presented to the Majlis. Apparently the government feels that the renewal must be presented to the Majlis...

"2. The only important change is Article 24. Razmara assured me that both he and the Shah realize that the present article is a protection to the Iranian Government, but they state that the Majlis will not agree to its inclusion. They suggest the article be thrown out altogether and that there be an exchange of notes in which the Iranian Government will agree not to employ any other foreign army advisors without our concurrence..."

American Embassy,

Tehran, Iran, December 20, 1948.

No. 555

The Embassy of the United States of America presents its compliments to the Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs and has the honor to refer to the Ministry's note No. 3471 dated September 20, 1948, relative to the renewal of the agreement covering the United States Military Mission with the Iranian Army, and subsequent conversations on the subject between various representatives of the Imperial Iranian Government and of this Embassy.

In its note of September 20, 1948 the Ministry states that the Iranian Government desires to have the agreement extended for a period of one more year upon its expiration on March 20, 1949, but that certain modifications in the text are to be the subject of further discussions. These discussions have now taken place and it is the Embassy's understanding, based upon oral assurances received from representatives of the Iranian Government, that the Iranian Government has now decided that the contract should be renewed without change. It is also understood that the Embassy will shortly receive a written communication to this effect.

As the Imperial Ministry will recall, Article 3 of the agreement provides that if the Government of Iran should desire that the services of the Mission be extended beyond the stipulated period (i.e. after March 20, 1949) it shall make a written proposal to that effect prior to September 21, 1948, and that the Government of the United States of America shall act upon such proposal prior to December 21, 1948. The Embassy accordingly takes this opportunity of informing the Imperial Ministry that the Government of the United States is agreeable to the extension of the agreement as requested by the Iranian Government, provided that the agreement is renewed without change.

The Embassy avails itself of the opportunity to renew to the Imperial Ministry the assurances of its highest consideration.

No. 1405.

The Iranian Ambassador presents his compliments to The Honourable The Secretary of State and has the honour to refer to his numerous discussions with Mr. Loy Henderson, former Director of the Office of Near Eastern and African Affairs, to his memorandum of August 4th, 1948, and, to repeated conversations with Mr. Satterthwaite, who succeeded Mr. Henderson; in the course of which he urged the necessity of extending:

- 1) Military aid to equip the Iranian Army, to render it more mobile and capable of resisting external aggression as well as to maintain internal order.
- 2) Financial and technical assistance to put into execution social, agricultural and industrial projects designed to raise the standard of living of the people.

thus enabling the Government to combat insidious communistic propaganda and to continue its struggle against aggression which it had been the first and foremost to resist.

In these conversations, the Ambassador emphasized that, although his Government had kept up its resistance for the preceding two years, while under severe pressure and without material assistance, it might not be in a position to succeed in doing so much longer, unless, aid similar to that given to other freedom loving nations which were in like situation, was extended to Iran.

As a result of these representations, the need for such assistance was recognized, and, The President of the United States as well as The Secretary of State have, on several occasions in their public declarations, included Iran with Greece and Turkey, among the nations under pressure, and deserving the aid and support of the United States. It has also been noted with deep satisfaction and gratification, that, in his latest message to Congress in connection with the Military Assistance Program, The President included Iran, among the other nations, eligible for military assistance.

The Ambassador also draws attention to his recent conversations with Mr. Satterthwaite and with Mr. McGhee, in the course of which, he informed them of his Government's determination to continue unswervingly its firm policy of resistance to aggression, and to make a formal request from the Government of The United States - as leader of the freedom loving nations - for military, financial and technical assistance, under existing programs, similar to the aid extended to other freedom loving nations.

(Paragraph omitted)

Included in this amount is an item, which could well be considered as military aid, specifying the material required by the Iranian State Railways to repair damage and deterioration to its track, roadbed and rolling stock due to the incessant and heavy traffic it had to bear during the period of Allied military use; this material being necessary to rehabilitate the railroad and to render it capable of properly fulfilling its functions as the country's main artery of transport and defense. In view of the services rendered during the last war to the Allied Cause by this same railroad, and its importance for the future, it is hoped that the Government of the United States will find it possible to supply what is needed for its rehabilitation, either under the Military Assistance Program, or, as a special grant-in-aid.

The Iranian Ambassador feels confident that the request of his Government for assistance will be given favourable and sympathetic consideration; and in conveying it, he wishes again to express appreciation for the other aid already in contemplation, such as military aid under the Military Assistance Program, financial and economic aid to the Seven Year plan, by means of loans and credits through the intermediary of the Export and Import Bank and The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development; also technical and other aid available under existing measures, such as the Smith-Mundt Act, and pending measures such as the Bill to implement Point Four of the President's Inaugural Speech.

Washington, D. C.

July 29, 1949.

The Honourable Dean C. Acheson,

Secretary of State,

Department of State,

Washington, D. C.

The Secretary of State presents his compliments to His Excellency the Ambassador of Iran and has the honor to refer to the Embassy's Note No. 1405 of July 29, 1949, regarding conversations between the Ambassador and officers of the Department concerning the desire of Iran to obtain military and economic assistance.

As the Ambassador is aware, the President, in his recent message to the Congress, included Iran among those countries eligible for military assistance. The ability of this Government to provide military aid, therefore, depends upon the action taken by the Congress on the President's proposal. The Department of State, along with the Department of Defence, is continuing to urge approval of the bill by the Congress and appropriation of the necessary funds. When and if the Congress makes this bill law, this Government will be in a position to provide certain essential needs of the Iranian military forces. It is to be noted that Iran is the only country with a favorable foreign exchange position for which military assistance has been recommended on a grant basis.

(Paragraph omitted)

... It is the opinion of this Government that early implementation of the Seven Year Program by the Government of Iran through the use of resources presently available to it is the best possible means of raising the standard of living of the Iranian people, thereby contributing to Iran's resistance to the aggression mentioned in the Ambassador's note under reference. The favorable foreign exchange position of Iran, plus the probability that Iran could supplement its own resources by obtaining credit from the International Bank, would appear to place Iran in a most advantageous position to implement fully its development program. The United States Government, as has been previously indicated to the Ambassador, would be willing to support an adequately documented Iranian application to the International Bank.

(Paragraph omitted)

This Government understands that the Iranian State Railway has suffered considerable deterioration since responsibility for its operation was returned to the Iranian State Railway Administration following its wartime use by the Allies, and it would appear that one of the most important tasks which might be undertaken under the Seven Year Plan would be rehabilitation of the railway.

With regard to the possibility that this rehabilitation program might be linked to a military assistance program, the Congress in appropriating previous funds for military assistance, has clearly indicated its unwillingness that such funds be used for civil purposes such as railway rehabilitation. It, therefore, is the policy of this Government not to use Military Assistance Program funds, when and if appropriated by the Congress, for projects of the type suggested.

The Ambassador may rest assured that this Government will continue to give sympathetic consideration to requests of the Iranian Government for assistance and will endeavor to provide such assistance whenever the need is fully justified and cannot be met from other sources available to Iran.

The Embassy of the United States of America presents its compliments to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Imperial Government of Iran and has the honor to refer to the latter's Note No. 4733 of Sharivar 29, 1328 (September 20, 1949) indicating the desire of the Imperial Government to extend for one year the agreement for the employment of the American Advisory Mission to the Imperial Ministry of War.

The Embassy has been instructed to indicate that the United States Government is willing to extend this agreement without change in terms. However, the recent establishment of the United States Department of Defense (which exercises in part the authority formerly invested in the War Department) and the creation of the Air Force Department make it necessary to provide for certain slight changes in wording to comply with the legal provisions governing the structure of the United States Government at the present time.

Accordingly, it is requested that when the existing agreement is extended, the following revisions of the text be made:

1. In the Preamble, after the word "Army" insert the words "and United States Air Force." The Preamble would then read as follows:

"In conformity with the request of the Government of Iran to the Government of the United States of America, the President of the United States of America has authorized the appointment of officers and enlisted men of the United States Army and United States Air Force to constitute a military mission to Iran under the conditions specified below:"

2. In Article 5 delete the word "initially" and after the word "Army" insert the words "and United States Air Force." Also in

* Transmitted to Dept with Despatch No. 15, Jan. 11, 1950
 This phrase is incorrect and should read "noncommissioned officers" in accordance with amendment included by exchange of notes completed January 5, 1949.

Article 5 delete the phrase "War Department" both times that it occurs and each time insert in its place the phrase "Department of Defense." Article 5 would then read as follows:

"The Mission shall consist of such numbers of personnel of the United States Army and United States Air Force as may be agreed upon by the Minister of War of Iran through his authorized representative in Washington and by the Department of Defense of the United States of America. The individuals to be assigned shall be those agreed upon by the Minister of War of Iran or his authorized representative and by the Department of Defense of the United States of America or its authorized representative."

3. In Article 10 after the phrase "United States Army" both times it occurs, insert the phrase "or United States Air Force." Article 10 would then read as follows:

"Each member of the Mission shall serve in the Mission with the rank he holds in the United States Army or United States Air Force but shall have precedence over all Iranian Army officers of the same rank. Each member of the Mission shall be entitled to all benefits and privileges which the regulations of the Iranian Army provide for officers of corresponding rank of the Iranian Army. Members of the Mission shall wear the United States Army or United States Air Force uniform with a shoulder sleeve insignia indicating service with the Iranian Army."

4. In Article 19 delete the phrase "War Department" and insert in its place the phrase "Department of Defense." Also in Article 19 change the phrase "one United States Army Aircraft" to read "one United States Air Force Aircraft." Article 19 would then read as follows:

"In addition to the United States Government transportation available to the Mission, the Government of Iran shall place other means of transportation (vehicle and aircraft) at the disposal of the Mission, when deemed necessary for the performance of official duties and will provide one third of the gasoline and oils required for the United States Government vehicles at the disposal of the Mission, as determined by the Chief of the Mission. The number and type of United States Government vehicles shall be determined by the Department of Defense of the United States of America and authority is granted for the entry and exit from Iran, in accordance with the existing law, of one United States Air Force Aircraft with crew as considered necessary by the Chief of the Mission, in the performance of official duties, provided that the Chief of the Mission previously informs the Iranian authorities concerned of the matter according to existing rules and regulations of Iran. All the United States Government vehicles placed at the disposal of the Mission for operation within Iran will be subject to the laws of Iran."

It is hoped that these changes will meet with the approval of the Imperial Government of Iran and that the existing agreement may be extended with the modifications indicated.

The Embassy of the United States of America avails itself of this opportunity to renew to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Imperial Government of Iran the assurances of its highest consideration.

SECRETMinute of Negotiations

In the course of discussions on the exchange of notes under the United States Mutual Defense Assistance Act of 1949, the representatives of the Government of the United States of America proposed the inclusion of the following provisions:

"The two governments recognize their mutual interest, consistent with mutual security and recovery objectives, in effective controls over the export of war-potential materials, equipment, and, in so far as practicable, technical data; and the two governments will consult with a view to taking measures for the accomplishment of these ends."

The representatives of the Government of Iran have stated that the Government of Iran is in full accord with the terms of this provision, and have also given assurances, on behalf of their government of the intention of the Government of Iran of cooperating with respect to the development of satisfactory controls over such war potential exports.

In view of the assurances of the representatives of the Government of Iran of the intention of the Government of Iran to cooperate in the development of such controls, and to establish such consultative procedures, the representatives of the two governments believe that it is unnecessary to include the above quoted provision in the text of the exchange of notes under the United States Mutual Defense Assistance Act.

SIR:

I refer to the conversations which have recently taken place between the representatives of our two Governments concerning the transfer of military assistance by the Government of the United States of America to the Government of Iran pursuant to Public Law 329, Eighty-first Congress [1] of the United States of America, and to confirm the understandings reached as a result of those conversations as follows:

1. The Government of the United States of America, recognizing this principle that economic recovery is essential to international peace and security and must be given clear priority, undertakes to make or continue to make available to the Government of Iran on a grant basis such equipment, materials and services as the Government of the United States of America may authorize. The furnishing of any such assistance as may be authorized pursuant hereto shall be consistent with the Charter of the United Nations [2] and shall be subject to all of the applicable terms and conditions and termination provisions of the Mutual Defense Assistance Act of 1949 [1] and such other applicable laws of the United States of America relating to the transfer of military assistance. The two governments will, from time to time, negotiate detailed arrangements necessary to carry out the provisions of this paragraph.

2. The Government of Iran undertakes to make effective use of assistance received pursuant to paragraph 1 for the purposes for which such assistance was furnished and will not devote such assistance to purposes other than those for which it was furnished in accordance with these understandings.

3. In the common security interest of both governments, the Government of Iran undertakes not to transfer to any person not an officer or agent of such government or to any other nation title to or possession of any equipment, materials or services received on a grant basis pursuant to paragraph 1, without the prior consent of the Government of the United States of America.

4. The Government of Iran, after giving due consideration to reasonable requirements for domestic use and commercial export of Iran which are to be determined by the Iranian Government itself, agrees to facilitate the production, transport, export and transfer to the Government of the United States of America, for such period of time, in such quantities and upon such terms and conditions as to the value, method of payment, et cetera, as may be agreed upon, of raw and semi-processed materials required by the United States of America as a result of deficiencies or potential deficiencies in its own resources, and which may be available in Iran.

5. (A) The Government of Iran will take appropriate measures which are not inconsistent with security and the interests of the country to keep the public informed of operations pursuant to these understandings.

(B) Each government will take such security measures as may be agreed in each case between the two governments in order to prevent the disclosure or compromise of materials, services or information furnished by the other government pursuant to these understandings.

6. The Government of Iran, except as may otherwise be agreed between the two governments, shall grant duty-free treatment and exemption from internal taxation on importation or exportation to products, property, materials or equipment imported into its territory in connection with this understanding.

8. The two governments will, upon request to either of them, negotiate appropriate arrangements between them respecting responsibility for patent or similar claims based on the use of devices, processes, technological information or other forms of property protected by law in connection with equipment, material or services furnished pursuant to paragraph 1. In such negotiations, this point shall be considered that each government will assume the responsibility for all such claims of its nationals and such claims arising in its jurisdiction of nationals of any third country.

9. The two governments will, upon the request of either of them, consult regarding any matter relating to the application of these understandings or to operations or arrangements carried out pursuant to these understandings.

I propose that, if these understandings meet with the approval of the Government of Iran, this note and your note concurring therein will be considered as confirming these understandings, effective on the date of your note and thereafter until one year after the date of receipt by either Government of a notification in writing of the intention of the other Government to terminate these understandings.

products, property, materials or equipment imported into its territory in connection with this understanding.

7. The Government of Iran agrees to receive technical personnel of the Government of the United States of America who will discharge in its territory the responsibilities of the Government of the United States of America for implementing the provisions of these understandings and to accord them necessary facilities to observe the progress of assistance furnished pursuant thereto.

8. The two Governments will, upon request to either of them, negotiate appropriate arrangements between them respecting responsibility for patent or similar claims based on the use of devices, processes, technological information or other forms of property protected by law in connection with equipment, material or services furnished pursuant to paragraph one. In such negotiations this point shall be considered: that each Government will assume the responsibility for all such claims of its nationals and such claims arising in its jurisdiction of nationals of any third country.

9. The two Governments will, upon the request of either of them, consult regarding any matter relating to the application of these understandings or to operations or arrangements carried out pursuant to these understandings.

10. Nothing herein shall be construed to alter, amend or otherwise modify the agreements between the United States of America and Iran, signed at Tehran November 27, 1943 and October 6, 1947 as amended or extended.

I have the honor to concur in the proposals made in your note and to inform you that the understandings set forth therein meet with the approval of the Government of Iran. That note and the present note, accordingly, are considered as confirming these understandings, effective on this date and thereafter until one year after the date of receipt by either Government of a notification in writing of the intention of the other Government to terminate these understandings.

I avail myself of this opportunity to renew to Your Excellency the assurances of my highest consideration.

CHAPTER II

*We want freedom and independence.
We donot want an army run by Americans or controlled by American advisors. A parasitic army, an army wasting Iran's resources to serve those Americans, and work for them while being controlled and trained by American advisors.*

Imam Khomeini (may God bless his soul) Oct. 20. 1978

The second chapter embraces 20 documents covering the period from January 1951 to March 1954, and mainly illustrating the position of DR. Mossadegh's government on U.S. military advisory in Iran. In 1951 when Mossadegh became Iran's premier, he opposed the renewal of agreements relating to the U.S. military missons.

In 1951, the U.S. government came up with the "Military Security Program", as a basis for drawing support for nations' allied with the west, against threats from the East. The program envisaged military assistance of gratuitous nature, yet countries desiring such aids were required to declare their concurrence with part A-511 of the program by Jan. 8. 1952.

Mossadegh, Iran's premier at the time, in a letter dated Jan. 4. 1952, rejected the program, and declared his unwillingness to violate Iran's impartiality. In response, the U.S. disrupted the delivery of arms to Iran in early 1952, putting an end to the training program for Iranian military personnel as well. Later, the issue of American military advisors retreat from Iran was seriously brought up. In March 1952 talks were held between DR. Mossadegh and U.S. government representatives which came to no positive progress as far as the renewal of agreements was concerned. But the government of Mossadegh agreed that U.S. military missions could stay in Iran temporarily without a formal renewal of those agreements, while enjoying their past privileges. A month later, that is, on April 1952, Mossadegh's government wrote a letter to U.S. ambassador in Tehran, making commitments. As a result, American's military aids to Iran resumed, and the U.S. state Department considered Mossadegh's letter, as acceptance of a part of "U.S. Military Security Program's" conditions.

Following the fall of DR. Mossadegh's government in 1953, general Zahidi's government renewed the U.S. military advisors' agreements.

Wife of Armish Col. Glass goes on trial Feb 23 on charge of manslaughter following auto accident ten months ago involving subsequent death of Iranian. Mrs. Glass states she was not driving auto as charged. Hence defense attorneys are confident they can show that she was not driving thereby obtaining acquittal. There would remain after such acquittal possibility that charges would be instituted against Col. Glass. Emb has been using its good offices to attempt achieve maximum justice this case.

1951 edition US Code of Military Justice says in Section 12 that "under international law jurisdiction over members of US armed forces or other sovereign who commit offenses in terr of friendly state in which visiting armed force is by consent quartered or in passage remains in visiting sovereign" and that this right may be waived only by visiting sovereign. Emb cannot find support of this statement in international law and does not believe that Armish officers and dependents, who under Armish contract enjoy no immunity from local legal processes, can expect protection of US govt beyond that extended US private citizen in Iran.

Would appreciate Dept's earliest comments in view Feb. 23 trial.

Department has given most careful consideration your recommendations regarding ARMISH. Principal factors which had in mind include: (A) Assurance action taken at this time will not unduly prejudice possibility eventually of obtaining written agreement under which Mission can continue; (E) Avoidance of course which unnecessarily would relieve pressures upon Mosadeq; (C) Avoidance impression US will go to any length to maintain Missions in Iran, even in absence Iranian Government desire this be done; (d) Avoidance any interim arrangement which would make it difficult for Mission to operate effectively; (e) Avoidance situation whereby subsequent withdrawal of Mission is on request of Iranian Government or as a result of Iranian Government's failure to renew written agreement would prove embarrassing to us in Iran and/or elsewhere. In latter connection, we are, of course, anxious avoid giving Soviets opportunity either use continued presence Mission as propaganda weapon or make formal representations to Iranian Government protesting Mission. Since Soviets on one occasion made formal demarche to Iranian Government regarding presence Mission even with contract, it seems unlikely they would remain silent if impression were given US forcing Mission on Iranians.

...After consulting with Defense, Department, therefore, authorizes you to accede to request of Iranians that Mission remain for time being without written agreement pending further discussions upon its status. In agreeing to such a course, however, you should make it clear to Iranians that this is purely temporary expedient and US cannot leave Mission in Iran indefinitely in absence formal agreement. US agreement to keep Mission would also be contingent upon clear, verbal understanding that its status will not be changed in interim period and that it will continue to enjoy all rights and privileges heretofore existing.

1. The current contract between the Government of the United States and the Government of Iran, which authorized the employment of the U S Military Mission with the Imperial Iranian Gendarmerie, expires on 2 October 1952 (10 Mehr 1331). I understand that the Prime Minister has informally agreed that the Mission continue its work in Iran after 2 October 1952, on terms similar to those under which the United States Military Mission with the Iranian Army is now functioning. I understand further that the Prime Minister intends that the arrangements authorized by the current contract continue unchanged until a new formal contract is signed, or until the United States Government or the Government of Iran determines that the US Military Mission with the Gendarmerie should be withdrawn from Iran.

2. I have attached hereto a copy of a letter dispatched by the Prime Minister, then as now Dr. Mossadeh, to the Ministry of Finance, dated 14 Feb 1952 (24/11/30), which authorizes the payment of salaries of American Advisors in the War Ministry and the Gendarmerie so long as they serve in Iran and according to the terms of the contracts for their employment between the two Governments. It is my understanding that this letter constitutes the necessary authority for the Ministry of Finance to continue payment of all pay and allowances now received by, or authorized for, members of this Mission after the expiration of the formal contract on 2 October 1952.

3. Request your confirmation that pay and allowances of members of this Mission will continue to be paid according to the terms of the present contract subsequent to its expiration, so long as the Mission serves in Iran.

Subj: Existing Status of Army and Gendarmerie Missions in Iran

Regarding the status of the Army and Gendarmerie Missions, some statements were made by the Prime Minister and his representatives more formal than the one by the Prime Minister quoted in the Embassy's telegram No. 3398 of March 6, 1952, and cited in the Department's reference airgram.

ARMY MISSION:

On February 14, 1952, prior to the oral agreement with the Ambassador whereby the Army Mission was continued in Iran (see Embtel 3503, March 13, 1952), and before the question of the continuation of the Gendarmerie Mission was raised, the Prime Minister issued an order (ANNEX 1) to the Ministry of Finance to pay, "so far as the said advisers serve in Iran", the members of the Army Mission and the Gendarmerie Mission "according to the Contract and approved law".

So far as the Army Mission is concerned, the "Contract" is presumably the agreement of 1947 (Treaties and Other International Acts Series 1666) as extended, or the earlier agreement of November 3, 1943 (Embassy despatch No. 659, November 10, 1943); and the "approved law" is presumably the law of Aban 1, 1322 (October 24, 1943) which is the "Law Authorizing the Employment of a Mission of Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers from the United States Army for the Ministry of War", of which a copy in translation was enclosed with Despatch No. 504 from the Embassy to the Department on September 26, 1947.

In the foregoing order of the Prime Minister, and frequently elsewhere, the word "salary" is used by the Iranians to include allowances.

On March 8, 1952 the Prime Minister issued another order to the Ministry of Finance (ANNEX 2) to pay the "United States Mission officers" in accordance with the law of Aban 1, 1322, until their situation should be determined. (See Embassy telegram No. 3444 of March 10, 1952.)

(Embassy telegram No. 3610, March 20, 1952.)

ANNEXES 1 and 2 and the enclosure to ANNEX 4 were received in translation and the Embassy is reluctant to approach the Ministries involved for copies of the Farsi originals.

The Embassy had compiled the following list of telegrams from the Embassy to the Department concerning the existing status of the Army and Gendarmerie Missions in Iran. If these telegrams have not already been consulted by the Department in connection with the review mentioned in the reference telegram the list may prove of convenience.

paragraph 6; 3434 paragraph 1), sought to keep the Army Mission in Iran without resort to Majlis approval (3302 paragraphs 1 and 6; 3434 paragraph 1), provided he could do so without a new written agreement and without appearing to extend the existing one. (3304 paragraphs 1 and 2; 3362 paragraph 1; 3398 paragraph 6; 3434 paragraph 1; 3503 paragraph 2). He seemed to consider that the earlier agreements (including extensions) had been invalid for lack of (Iranian) authority to enter into them; even though they purported to be based on the Law of Aban 1, 1322 (3302 paragraph 6; 3444 paragraph 3). With no greater apparent authority; however, he made an oral agreement that secured the further services of the Mission, implicitly incorporating the substance of the terms of the earlier agreements. His executive order of February 14 (ANNEX 1) looked for its details to the earlier agreements and to the Law of Aban 1, 1322; and his executive order of March 8 (ANNEX 2) looked again to that Law. There is no overt evidence, however, that he was seeking that authority in the Law of Aban 1, 1322 that he had denied in his predecessors. So far as other Iranian officials involved could see, if the earlier agreements were invalid, the Prime Minister's authority to make the new, oral agreement was as questionable, or even more so (3398 paragraph 4; 3410 paragraphs 3 and 4). He was apparently able, however, to reassure them (3434 paragraph 2; 3439 paragraph 2), but his rationale was not revealed to the Embassy. From the United States standpoint, the present oral agreement is, so far as it goes, a valid one (3344 paragraph 2 and 3503 paragraph 1). The Embassy's guess is that the Prime Minister, despite his suggestions to the contrary, considers the Law of Aban 1, 1322 ample authority for the oral agreement which at least operated as an extension of the earlier agreements, and that he entered into the oral agreement pursuant to such authority. He has, moreover, issued executive orders (ANNEXES 1 and 2) that strongly suggest that his authority is found in the Law of Aban 1, 1322. The Embassy is inclined to believe that the issuance by each party to the press of a statement, approved in advance by the other party, announcing the arrangements which have been entered into, indicates publicly the existence of an informal agreement.

It would seem that the oral agreement governing the Gendarmerie Mission is, similarly, based upon the Law of October 21, 1943 and the agreement of November 27, 1943 as extended; and that it, too, so far as it goes, is a valid agreement.

 and Gendarmerie Missions in Iran

Regarding the status of the Army and Gendarmerie Missions, some statements were made by the Prime Minister and his representatives more formal than the one by the Prime Minister quoted in the Embassy's telegram No. 3398 of March 6, 1952, and cited in the Department's reference airgram.

GENDARMERIE MISSION:

On September 6, 1952 the Ambassador and the Prime Minister orally agreed that the Gendarmerie Mission should temporarily continue to function after October 2, 1952 (the date of the expiration of the extended agreement under which the Gendarmerie Mission was operating) under the terms and conditions under which it had functioned in the past (Embassy telegram No. 1030 of September 7, 1952. "Today" in the text of the telegrams refers to the date of drafting.)

On September 8, 1952 the Chief of the Gendarmerie Mission wrote to the Commanding General of the Gendarmerie referring to the oral agreement. This letter enclosed a copy of the Prime Minister's letter in ANNEX 1 and expressed the understanding that the Prime Minister's letter constituted the necessary authority for the continuation of the payment of the Gendarmerie Mission after October 2; and requested confirmation that the payments would continue.

The Gendarmerie apparently inquired of the Ministry of the Interior, which has jurisdiction over the Gendarmerie, by a letter of which no copy is available, dated September 10, 1952, and received a reply from the Ministry dated September 17, 1952 (ANNEX 4, Enclosure 1) confirming that the Gendarmerie Mission was to be paid according to the Prime Minister's letter in ANNEX 1.

A copy of this letter from the Ministry of the Interior was enclosed with a letter dated September 21, 1952 from the Gendarmerie to the Chief of the Gendarmerie Mission. (ANNEX 4)

Despatch No. 938, May 13, 1953

So far as the Gendarmerie Mission is concerned, the "Contract" mentioned in ANNEX 1 is presumably the agreement of November 27, 1943 (Executive Agreement Series 361) as extended; and the "approved law" is presumably that of October 21, 1943 referred to in the preamble of the agreement. No copy of the Law is presently available to the Embassy, and to seek one from the Iranians at this time might lead to undesirable speculation.

There were no press releases in connection with the oral agreement concerning the Gendarmerie Mission.

ANNEXES 1 and 2 and the enclosure to ANNEX 4 were received in translation and the Embassy is reluctant to approach the Ministries involved for copies of the Farsi originals.

Despatch No. 938, May 13, 1953

The Prime Minister, as a result of pressure (3662 paragraph 1; 3398 paragraphs 1 and 11) or choice (3344 paragraph 6; 3434 paragraph 1), sought to keep the Army Mission in Iran without resort to Majlis approval (3302 paragraphs 1 and 6; 3434 paragraph 1), provided he could do so without a new written agreement and without appearing to extend the existing one. (3304 paragraphs 1 and 2; 3362 paragraph 1; 3398 paragraph 6; 3434 paragraph 1; 3503 paragraph 2). He seemed to consider that the earlier agreements (including extensions) had been invalid for lack of (Iranian) authority to enter into them, even though they purported to be based on the Law of Aban 1, 1322 (3302 paragraph 6; 3444 paragraph 3). With no greater apparent authority, however, he made an oral agreement that secured the further services of the Mission, implicitly incorporating the substance of the terms of the earlier agreements. His executive order of February 14 (ANNEX 1) looked for its details to the earlier agreements and to the Law of Aban 1, 1322; and his executive order of March 8 (ANNEX 2) looked again to that Law. There is no overt evidence, however, that he was seeking that authority in the Law of Aban 1, 1322 that he had denied in his predecessors. So far as other Iranian officials involved could see, if the earlier agreements were invalid, the Prime Minister's authority to make the new, oral agreement was as questionable, or even more so, (3398 paragraph 4; 3410 paragraphs 3 and 4). He was apparently able, however, to reassure them (3434 paragraph 2; 3439 paragraph 2), but his rationale was not revealed to the Embassy. From the United States standpoint, the present oral agreement is, so far as it goes, a valid one (3344 paragraph 2 and 3503 paragraph 1). The Embassy's guess is that the Prime Minister, despite his suggestions to the contrary, considers the Law of Aban 1, 1322 ample authority for the oral agreement which at least operates as an extension of the earlier agreements, and that he entered into the oral agreement pursuant to such authority. He has, moreover, issued executive orders (ANNEXES 1 and 2) that strongly suggest that his authority is found in the Law of Aban 1, 1322. The Embassy is inclined to believe that the issuance by each party to the press of a statement, approved in advance by the other party, announcing the arrangements which have been entered into, indicates publicly the existence of an informal agreement.

It would seem that the oral agreement governing the Gendarmerie Mission is, similarly, based upon the Law of October 21, 1943 and the agreement of November 27, 1943 as extended; and that it, too, so far as it goes, is a valid agreement.

There is no standardized formal title for Armish, although the most commonly used title (as indicated below) is "the U.S. Military Mission with the Iranian Army". CHAPTER III

Our nation says, our army must be independent, and not under American and foreign advisors' subjugation, We are making these statements for your own sake, so come and say that you want to be independent, that you do not want the advisors. We say the army must be independent.

Imam Khomeini (may God bless his soul)

The third chapter includes 23 documents covering the period from July 14, 1954 to June 6, 1964. Six documents relate to the formation of various American military advisory missions in Iran's army and gendarmerie.

In 1954 two different advisory groups working with Iran's army, merged. In 1956, Iran and the U.S. signed a contract on "military construction arrangements" which not only increased the Iran-based American military personnel, but allowed for the arrival in Iran, of more third country citizens disguised as contractors and sub-contractors. The two groups' entry into Iran created passport-registration problems, since the U.S. wished Iran to register them with the foreign ministry rather than the police headquarters, so that their holders would be exempt from paying entry or work permit fees in Iran. On the whole, 17 documents deal with this issue.

THE UNITED STATES MILITARY MISSION
WITH THE
IMPERIAL IRANIAN ARMY
(ARMISH)

A U. S. Military Mission has existed in Iran since 27 September 1941. Initially it was concerned with lend lease aid to the Middle East, and not until 23 October 1945 was aid recognized by Iran. A formal contract establishing the U. S. Military Mission with the Iranian Army was signed ~~formally~~ on October 6, 1947. The contract was not renewed at its expiration in 1951 and the Mission is operating under a verbal agreement reached with former Prime Minister Mossadegh.

The general purpose and function of this Mission is to provide training, administrative and technical advice and assistance in all military fields in order to increase the modernization and efficiency of the Imperial Iranian Army, Air Force, and Navy.

The Mission consists of 24 officers and 67 enlisted men. Brigadier General Robert A. McClure of Indiana is Commanding General; and Colonel Vernum C. Stevens of Pennsylvania is Chief of Staff.

Since World War II the United States Military Mission has worked toward increasing the effectiveness of the Imperial Iranian Army which includes the Air Force and Navy. The post-World War II Military Establishment was in a pitiful condition. The Army consisted of non-standard ill-equipped divisions scattered throughout Iran. Logistical support was non-existent and most of the antiquated equipment was worn and in need of replacement. The few existing military schools had deteriorated during the war years resulting in an inadequate trained officer corps. The Military Mission prepared plans for reorganization and modernization of the Army. A workable supply system ~~was to be~~ ^{has been} inaugurated. A progressive military school system was planned so that qualified officers and specialists would be available to conduct a realistic training program.

The advent of the Military Defense Assistance Program for Iran provided, to a certain extent, the means for attainment of these goals. Progress, however was retarded, at times, due to the changing political situation and lack of cooperation by the Iranian General Staff with the American Advisors. Generally the attitude of the General Staff was a direct reflection of the political climate of the existing government in their relationship with the West. In spite of the past political turmoil and the critical financial condition of Iran, much has been accomplished during the past two years.

At the present time, with the Shah as commander-in-chief of the Armed Forces, there is a sincere desire by the Iranian General Staff, as evidenced by actions, to accept the advice of the Military Mission and cooperate in a determined effort to improve the standards of the military establishment.

The plan for the much delayed reorganization of the Army, as recommended by the Military Mission, is now in the final phase of implementation. The ground force consists of twelve (12) Infantry Divisions (light) and three (3) Armored Divisions (light) organized into five (5) Combat Corps. Each Corps is provided with logistical support units to insure proper maintenance and supply for the combat units. The United States Army supply system has been adopted and is in the process of implementation. Most of the material to equip the above forces, furnished under MDAP, has been received. Training of all units has been accelerated with a stepped-up firing program.

Another major accomplishment noteworthy of mention is the organization of the Military University which is staffed by Iranian officers trained in the United States under MDAP. This institution is comprised of the individual schools of the combat arms and services, centralized under one administrative head, for coordination and supervision. This installation has provided trained officers which has contributed materially to the absorption and utilization of MDAP equipment. The Military University along with the other two major schools, the Military Academy and the Staff College, permits officers to receive a progressive military education.

There remains a material requirement which has a practical, and perhaps more important, psychological value to the Iranian Army. The Shah desires to organize, equip, and train an Army which is capable of defending against any aggressor as well as maintaining internal security. This additional equipment, not presently programmed, consists of a limited quantity of medium artillery, anti-aircraft weapons, medium tanks, bridging equipment improvement of airfields and preliminary jet plane familiarization. This is part of the Shah's proposed two-year plan to gradually build up strength, instill confidence, and the will to resist aggression.

THE UNITED STATES MILITARY MISSION WITH THE
IMPERIAL IRANIAN ARMY
(ARMISH)

A U. S. Military Mission has existed in Iran since 27 September 1941. Initially it was concerned with lend lease aid to the Middle East, and not until 23 October 1943 was aid recognized by Iran. A formal contract establishing the U. S. Military Mission with the Imperial Iranian Army was signed formally on October 6, 1947. The contract was not renewed at its expiration in 1951 and the Mission is operating under a verbal agreement reached with former Prime Minister Mossadegh.

The general purpose and function of this Mission is to provide training administrative and technical advice and assistance in all military fields in order to increase the modernization and efficiency of the Imperial Iranian Army, Air Force, and Navy.

The Mission consists of 24 officers and 67 enlisted men. Brigadier General Robert A. McClure of Illinois is Commanding General, and Colonel Verbum C. Stevens of Pennsylvania is Chief of Staff.

At the present time, although the training and equipping programs are not complete, the Imperial Iranian Army has achieved a considerable amount of progress, particularly in the fields of transportation, armor, communication supply, maintenance, and education. For example:

Many types of vehicles have been furnished and personnel have been trained to use and operate them. The Imperial Iranian Army has been given limited mobility. Compared to United States units, they would be considered semi-mobile. Lack of a supply and fuel system limits their mobile effectiveness. Roads and terrain compel them to still rely heavily on animal transport.

At present each infantry and armored division is equipped with one company of light tanks. In addition, the two armored divisions now in existence are provided with one battalion of 76 millimeter gun medium tanks. Newest arrivals in Iran are the first shipment of 90 millimeter gun tanks. A cadre has been provided and a training program planned for to provide a third battalion of tanks. In addition, M20 and M8 Armored cars are already here, and new reconnaissance and security elements will be developed around the light armored equipment for both infantry and armored divisions.

Communication systems, both wire and radio, have been developed, thus providing better tactical control.

Training in the use of support weapons, such as artillery, mortars, rocket launchers, and recoilless rifles, has assisted materially in providing for increased fire power.

Increased United States training control is considered necessary to make the Imperial Iranian Army combat effective. Proposals to implement this have been presented to the Imperial Iranian Army General Staff, but have not yet met with acceptance.

It is true that much remains to be done in the fields of supply and maintenance, particularly for "in the field" support of combat units. However, when spare parts stocks and trained personnel are available in sufficient quantities to satisfy all requirements, and when a satisfactory stock accountability system has been established, much improvement can be expected.

The backbone of technical and tactical progress within any military organization is the educational system which provides trained personnel. During the past two years the military educational system has been reorganized to provide training in all specialized fields. Progressive training along proper technical or tactical lines is now required of all officers in order to progress to positions of higher rank and authority. As a long term project, the educational system will doubtless have an important effect upon the future development of the Imperial Iranian military establishment.

THE UNITED STATES MILITARY MISSION WITH THE
IMPERIAL IRANIAN GENDARMERIE
(GENMISH)

1. The Imperial Iranian Gendarmerie is one of the two organizations (the other is the Iranian Police) available to the Minister of Interior for the maintenance of security and order within Iran. The Gendarmerie has an authorized strength of about 21,000 officers and men and has a twofold peacetime mission:

- a. To maintain law and order within Iran except in those urban areas where police are provided and certain tribal and frontier regions under Army control.
- b. To execute pertinent directives of the various Ministries and government departments in those areas not under police control. This involves principally the serving of summonses and legal notifications.

The wartime role of the Gendarmerie contemplates certain additional functions principally of a military police nature in direct support of the Army. A substantial augmentation of the Gendarmerie in strength and authority is now under governmental consideration.

2. GENMISH was established in August 1942. A contract governing the relationship of the Mission with the Iranian Government was negotiated in 1943 and renewed periodically until its expiration in October 1952. At that time the Prime Minister assured the Ambassador of the United States that, while it is not now expedient to renew the contract, the Mission may continue to function under the terms of the expired contract until a new contract is signed or until either of the concerned governments determine its continuation no longer desirable. The current strength is seven commissioned and eight non-commissioned officers. The Chief of Mission is Colonel Charles B. McClelland, O17558, of Covington, Tennessee.

The purpose of the Mission is to advise and assist the Minister of the Interior through the Command General of the Gendarmerie in improving the organization, training, equipment status and operational capability of the Gendarmerie. Primary objectives are:

- a. To improve the functions of the Gendarmerie within its proper field.
- b. To improve its capability, in the event of invasion of Iran by a foreign power, to execute its primary missions while assisting and supporting the Iranian Army.
- c. To improve its popular status and prestige.

The mission serves in an advisory capacity only without any executive authority. Objectives are accomplished by instruction in the Gendarmerie school, by securing assistance in appropriate fields from the Mutual Defense Assistance Program (MDAP) and from the Technical Cooperation for Iran Program (TCI) and by submitting pertinent recommendations designed to influence and shape policies and planning in all phases of Gendarmerie activity. Recommendations are the result of constant studies, surveys and field trips made by members of the Mission.

3. Progress of the GENMISH Program. Operating without executive authority, the success of GENMISH depends predominately upon its prestige and the confidence and cooperation it is able to inspire in the Gendarmerie and other Iranian Government agencies. GENMISH has been most successful in this respect, enjoying the whole-hearted confidence and respect of the Gendarmerie and the Ministry of the Interior. Despite this prerequisite, the full attainment of GENMISH objectives has been restricted by various obstructions. At this time, budgetary limitations and shortage of funds to meet even the requirements of the present austere budget are especially restrictive.

Despite these handicaps, GENMISH has made definite progress in the fields of organization and staff procedure, communications, transportation, housing, basic medicine and education. Contingent upon the continued support of MDAP and TCI, and provided the Government of Iran provides funds to support a Gendarmerie modernized in equipment and operational technique, the GENMISH program should eventually be attained.

Teheran, Iran

July 14, 1954

An agreement between the Government of the United States of America and the Imperial Government of Iran established the United States Military Mission with the Iranian Army and was signed formally on November 3rd, 1943.

The general purpose and function of this mission is to provide training, administrative and technical advice and assistance in all military fields in order to increase the modernization and efficiency of the Imperial Iranian Army, Air Force and Navy.

This Mission today is composed of 92 United States Military Personnel including 31 officers and 61 enlisted men. The Chief of the Mission is Brigadier General Robert A. McClure. The Deputy Chief and Chief of Staff is Colonel Edwin A. Machen, Jr.

At the present time, although the training and equipping programs are not complete, the Iranian Army has achieved a considerable amount of progress, particularly in the fields of transportation, armor, communications, supply, maintenance and education. For example, many types of vehicles have been furnished to the Army and personnel have been trained to use and operate them. This, together with the introduction of a modern supply system, has raised the combat potential of the Army through its ability to move forces far more rapidly than heretofore.

The receipt of tanks has resulted in the training of personnel and the organization of tank battalions and independent tank companies.

Communication systems both wire and radio have been developed, thus providing better tactical control.

Training in the use of support weapons, such as artillery, mortars, rocket launchers and recoilless rifles, has assisted materially in providing for increased fire power.

The establishment of a military educational system patterned after that of the United States Army is of major importance and provides training in all specialized fields. Attendance is a prerequisite for all officers to progress to positions of higher rank and authority. As a long term project, the educational pattern will doubtless have an important effect upon the development of the Iranian Military establishment.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief of Staff
Imperial Iranian Army

SUBJECT: Reorganization of ARMISH-MAAG

1. As the result of a recent study to improve the operational efficiency of ARMISH-MAAG, which was referred to in my letter of 29 August 1954, a consolidation of these organizations has been effected. This will in no way affect the Mission contract with the Iranian Government and should result in far more effective support for the IIA. Some of the changes to accomplish the latter are outlined herein.

2. In order to facilitate the continuing progress of the Iranian Army a change in emphasis on the duties of the combat and technical advisors is indicated. As you know the responsibilities of the Advisors for assistance to the IIA fall into three categories: Advice and assistance to the IIA General Staff and Departments; training assistance to all IIA units; and advice and assistance in the operation of the school system. In the past, emphasis has been placed on the latter duty, in the Military University, to the extent that the School Commandants rely heavily on the combat and technical advisors and expect their full time participation at the respective schools. During the period that the Military University was struggling for existence this was necessary and appropriate. However, since it is well established and efficiently operating, it is felt that emphasis should now be placed in rendering advice and assistance to the IIA General Staff and Departments and IIA units in the field. This has been taken into consideration in the reorganization of ARMISH-MAAG.

3. Of particular interest is the establishment within the G-3 Section of a training branch and a plans, operation and organization branch. This will permit close coordination and cooperation with like sections on your staff. It will facilitate guidance and assistance in planning, organization and training matters to include training programs and memorandums, CPX's, maneuvers, training inspections, defense plans, organization of new units and headquarters, field inspections and establishment and maintenance of training records.

4. It should also be noted that in the new organization the spaces allotted for advisors to the Military University, Military College and Staff College have not been changed. The only change in this respect is in the assignment of individual officers. Since Colonel Benson is due for early return to the United States, Colonel White will be assigned these duties so that there will be an adequate period for his orientation prior to Colonel Benson's departure. When Lt Col Hale arrives from the States it is contemplated that he will be assigned to the Military College.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Chief, Advisory Department, Ministry of War

SUBJECT: Consolidation of ARMISTE-MAAG

The Minister of War has no objections to and concurs in the consolidation of the U. S. Military Mission with the Iranian Army and the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group as of 15 September 1954.

It is my understanding that such a consolidation in no way affects the existing contracts between our two governments which authorize the Mission and the Advisory Group. I further understand that the consolidation is deemed advisable to make the most effective use of available U. S. personnel assigned to the Mission and to the Advisory Group.

ARCG 17 January 1955

SUBJECT: Consolidation and Reorganization of ARMISH-MAAG

TO: Chief of Staff
United States Army
Washington 25, D. C.
ATTN: ACofS, G3

1. On 15 September 1954, by local command action as indicated in General Orders 1, this headquarters, (copy attached as Inclosure 1) the U. S. Military Mission with the Iranian Army and the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group to Iran were reorganized and consolidated in order to make the most effective use of available personnel.

2. The major changes required by the above reorganization are outlined in Staff Memorandum 3, this headquarters, dated 26 August 1954. (Copy attached as Inclosure 2.) The most pressing problem presented by the reorganization was to require that the Chief, Army Section, MAAG, be qualified also as a G4, a problem which can be solved whenever a replacement is requisitioned.

3. Informally I was advised by a Department of the Army G3 representative (Major Rex Hampton, OAC of S, G3, DA) that the Department of the Army view concerning the ARMISH-MAAG consolidation was that our General Order 1 (Inclosure 1) might have to be withdrawn unless the consent of the Iranian Minister of War could be obtained. Attached as Inclosure 3 is a true copy translation of such a letter from the Minister of War containing his formal consent to the consolidation and reorganization.

4. It is not the intent of the reorganization and consolidation to affect in any way the two contracts between the two governments authorizing the Mission or the MAAG, nor is it desired that the Tables of Allowances and Tables of Distribution for the two organizations be combined. On the other hand, it is strongly recommended that separate contracts, as well as separate Tables of Distribution and Allowances for the Mission and the MAAG continue to be maintained to provide for the possible withdrawal of the MAAG at some future date.

5. The Air Section, ARMISH, and the Air Section, MAAG, have similarly been combined, although the effect of this combination is merely to make subsections of the two separate sections and combine them under a single Air Section ARMISH-MAAG, headed by the senior Air Officer present.

ARCG 17 January 1955
SUBJECT: Consolidation and Reorganization of ARMISH-MAAG

6. The Navy Section, ARMISH-MAAG, which consists of two officers and two enlisted men all of whom are assigned to MAAG, is relatively unaffected by the consolidation. The Chief, Navy Section, however, is voluntarily continuing as heretofore to function in an advisory capacity to the Imperial Iranian Navy.

7. Prior to the formal reorganization and consolidation of 15 September 1954, many functions of ARMISH and MAAG were of necessity carried out on a consolidated basis. As examples, the Adjutant General's Section, ARMISH, the Supply Section, ARMISH, and the Motor Pool, ARMISH, served both the Mission and the MAAG, as did the APO, MAAG and the U. S. Army Hospital, MAAG. In most cases, personnel were assigned to the above activities from both MAAG and from the Mission. In effect, the reorganization and consolidation regularizes and organization partially in operation on an informal basis prior to the consolidation.

8. The reorganization and consolidation outlined above has been in operation for approximately five months and has proven to be fully effective and warranted, particularly in view of the increasing utilization of ARMISH-MAAG by the Iranian Armed Forces and the additional operational and administrative burdens placed on this headquarters through the arrival of the U. S. training teams. It is requested that the consolidation and reorganization of this headquarters, informally known as ARMISH-MAAG, be confirmed by the Department of the Army.

MILITARY MISSION ACTIVITIES IN IRAN

5 May 1956

1. In addition to Army, Navy and Air Force Attaches attached to the U.S. Embassy, there are three U.S. Military Missions currently operating in IRAN under contractual agreements between the UNITED STATES and Iranian Governments. These missions are:

a. The United States Military Mission with the Imperial Iranian Army (ARMISH).

b. The Military Assistance Advisory Group to Iran (MAAG).

c. The United States Military Mission with the Imperial Iranian Gendarmerie (GENMISH).

2. ARMISH

a. Mission: The assigned mission of ARMISH is to advise and assist the Iranian Minister of War, the Imperial Iranian General Staff and subordinate elements of the Iranian Army (which includes Air Force and Navy) in matters pertaining to plans, organization, administration and training. Members of ARMISH have neither command nor operating staff responsibility in the Iranian Army but may make such official inspections and investigations as may be necessary for performance of their duties.

b. Organization: ARMISH is composed of an Army group consisting of 24 officers and 67 enlisted men and an Air Force group of 6 officers and 12 airmen. It has no Navy group, although Navy MAAG officers assist in advisory functions. The Chief of Mission is also Chief, MAAG, and the Chief of Staff, ARMISH is Deputy Chief, MAAG. ARMISH is currently a unified service organization under an executive agency, the Department of the Army.

c. Background: A military mission has existed in IRAN since 27 September 1941 although initially it was concerned with lend-lease assistance to the Middle East. The first officers representing ARMISH arrived in IRAN in October 1942. A formal contract specifying ARMISH organization and mission was signed between the two governments in November 1943. A revised contract was drawn up and signed on 6 October 1947; the contract has been periodically extended, the latest extension for two years commencing 21 March 1956.

3. MAAG

a. Mission: In summary, the mission of US MAAG, IRAN is to carry out the objectives and insure the effective implementation of the Mutual Defense Assistance Program for IRAN.

b. Organization: MAAG IRAN is composed of Army Section (not including the Field Training Teams) of 25 officers and 20 enlisted men, an Air Force Section of 5 officers and 7 enlisted men, and a Navy Section of 2 officers and 2 enlisted men. Chief, MAAG is also the Chief, ARMISH. MAAG, IRAN came under the command of USCINCEUR on 19 August 1955.

c. Background: The Mutual Defense Assistance Agreement which established MAAG, IRAN was signed 23 May 1950. However, MDAP equipment in quantity did not begin to arrive in IRAN until FY 1952.

4. GENMISH

a. Mission: The assigned mission of GENMISH is to advise and assist the Minister of the Interior in improving the organization and operations of the Imperial Iranian Gendarmerie. Primary objectives are to achieve high standards of efficiency, promote prestige and public esteem and to develop military potential to reinforce the Iranian Army in national emergencies.

b. Organization: GENMISH has an authorized military strength of 8 officers, 1 warrant officer, and 9 enlisted men, all of whom are Army personnel. GENMISH is a unified service organization reporting directly to the Executive Agency, the Department of the Army and is not under the command of Chief, ARMISH-MAAG. For MDAP matters, it comes under the supervision of the Chief, MAAG, IRAN.

c. Background: GENMISH was established at the request of the Iranian Government in 1942. A formal contract was first signed in November 1943; the contract has been revised or extended periodically, the latest extension for two years period commencing 21 March 1956.

5. Consolidation of ARMISH-MAAG

ARMISH and MAAG operated as separate agencies under a common Chief until September 1954 when they were consolidated to achieve personnel savings and operational efficiency. The consolidation was subsequently approved by the Department of the Army and by the Department of Defense. ARMISH-MAAG is organized under the normal General Staff system, with a separate Navy Section and Air Force Section, which combine MAAG and ARMISH elements. General Staff sections carry out normal command administration, Army advisory and MDAP functions and supervise technical service and combat arms sections in carrying out similar activities. ARMISH-MAAG operates a common motor pool, supply room and a small hospital servicing two thousand U. S. citizens in IRAN, as well as an Officers' and a Non-Commissioned Officers' Open Mess. Separate Tables of Distributions and fiscal systems are maintained for ARMISH and MAAG, because of the separate contracts with the Iranian government and because of MDAP funding requirements.

6. Field Training Teams

a. General: In October 1954, the Department of the Army authorized five field training Teams, each consisting of thirteen officers and twenty-five enlisted men, to assist in the detailed field training of the Iranian Army. Training Teams were phased to arrive over a six months period starting in January 1955. All five teams are currently in operation in the areas of the six Corps of the Iranian Army (one team is covering two Corps). Initial results achieved by the training teams have been highly encouraging. Additional details on training team operations are contained in the Training paragraph in Annex I, Army Section, of this report.

b. Administration: The five training Teams are based on a permanent duty station in one of the principal cities of IRAN. Their average distance from Headquarters, ARMISH-MRAG, in TEHERAN is approximately five hundred miles. Each team is furnished a limited amount of Table of Distribution equipment including vehicles. However, no government-leased quarters or messes are provided and each team member is on a station-allowance basis. Informal pro-rata arrangements enable each team to rent necessary quarters and operate suitable messes. As no U. S. Army Commissary exists in IRAN, messes are privately supported by use of an Embassy cooperative commissary and the local economy.

SUBJECT: Military Construction Arrangements.

The Ambassador and the Iranian Minister of Foreign Affairs today exchanged notes putting into effect the agreed "Military Construction Arrangements" between the two Governments under the terms of the Mutual Assistance Agreement of May 23, 1950. These "Arrangements" do not constitute an "Agreement" and should not be made a part of the formal U.S. Treaty and Agreements series. The Arrangements are unclassified, but for reasons of Iranian governmental convenience are not at present being published or publicized in Iran.

Agreement was reached after several months of consideration of proposals by the two governments. In the end, after some difficulty and the exploration of several possible compromises on difficult points, the U.S. side was able to obtain agreement to the original draft text approved by the interested Washington Departments and agencies, and proposed by the Ambassador to the Minister of Foreign Affairs, with a few minor modifications of phraseology involving no loss of substance. The exchange of notes was effected without delay as soon as the Iranian Council of Ministers had approved the complete text.

Both notes are dated September 19, 1956. The text of the U.S. note is attached as Enclosure 1. The English translation of the Iranian note of acceptance is given in Enclosure 2. A photostatic copy of the Iranian note and a certified copy of the U.S. note will be forwarded shortly.

The U.S. negotiating group was headed by Clifford C. Hatlock, Special Assistant to the Ambassador, who was assisted by Colonel Leigh C. Fairbank, Jr., Gulf District Engineer Colonel Gus E. Lehmann, G-3, ARMISH-MRAG, and Chief, Army Section, MRAG; and Mr. Salomon Firsiroti, Chief, Legal Branch, Gulf District. The Iranian negotiation group was led by Ali Mansour, Head of the Fourth Political Division (American desk) of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, assisted by representatives of the Ministry of War.

Sealed: Ministry of Foreign Affairs
 Imperial Iranian Government

The Embassy of the United States of America presents its compliments to the Imperial Iranian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and has the honor to refer to the Ministry's Note Verbale No. 3093 of May 25, 1959, and to the Embassy's Note No. 407 of July 13, 1959.

The Embassy of the United States of America has the honor to propose the renewal until Esfand 29, 1340 (March 20, 1962) of the United States Military Mission Agreements dated November 27, 1943, and October 6, 1947, and to suggest certain amendments in the payment and benefit procedures now provided under various articles of the Agreements.

Under the terms of the 1943 Agreement, and of the 1947 Agreement, the Government of Iran accords payment to individual members of the United States Military Missions to Iran. Pursuant to a recent act of the Congress of the United States of America, however, officers and employees of the United States Government detailed to foreign governments are no longer authorized to accept compensation or other benefits from such governments. The members of the United States Military Missions in Iran have therefore assigned to the Government of the United States all rights granted to them to compensation or other benefits by Iranian law by virtue of the performance of their duties as members of the Missions.

In order to permit the Government of Iran to continue to discharge its obligations to the Government of the United States of America under the Military Mission Agreements, it is proposed that the Government of the United States of America, as assignee of the members of the United States Military Missions in Iran, receive payments to the same extent and in the same amounts as have heretofore been paid by the Imperial Iranian Government to such members. The Government of the United States of America, as assignee, would be happy to view the sums paid by the Imperial Iranian Government in this connection as a means of sharing the cost of the United States Military Missions in Iran as envisaged in the applicable Agreements.

The Embassy also wishes to confirm that the Government of the United States of America is agreeable to the substitution for the wording in Article 24 of the 1947 Agreement of the following:

"So long as this Agreement, or any extension thereof, is in effect, in the event the Imperial Iranian Government should desire to engage other foreign personnel for duty of any nature connected with the Imperial Iranian Armed Force, the circumstances shall be brought, in the interests of mutual cooperation, to the knowledge of the United States Government authorities concerned prior to the arrangement for such services."

The Embassy further has the honor to propose the establishment of a Navy Section of the United States Military Mission, to consist of one United States Naval officer, and to be governed by the terms and conditions, mutatis mutandis, of the 1947 Agreement.

The Government of the United States of America will consider this Note, together with a favorable reply from the Imperial Iranian Government, as constituting a renewal of the United States Military Mission Agreements as modified herein.

The Embassy avails itself of this opportunity to renew to the Imperial Ministry the assurances of its highest consideration.

Embassy of the United States of America,

Tehran, April 10, 1961.

Note No. 1344
Date of Note: June 14, 1961

The Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs presents its compliments to the Embassy of the United States of America and with reference to the Note No. 596, dated April 10, 1961 regarding proposal of the Embassy about the method of payment of salary to the U. S. Army officers and non-commissioned officers and also about employment of foreign officials for service in the Imperial Army, subject of Article 24 of the agreement of the year 1947 and proposal of establishment of a Naval Department of the U. S. Military Mission in Iran, has the honor to announce the views of the Imperial appropriate authorities as follows:

1 - About the payment of salary of the U. S. Army officers and non-commissioned officers, it is already approved that their salary be paid to the Chief of the Advisory Mission in case the said employees give power of attorney to the Chief of the Advisory Mission to receive their salary. Of course, the said officers and non-commissioned officers have the option to appoint other attorney to receive the salary.

2 - The Imperial appropriate authorities have already approved the following correction about Article 24 also:

As long as the existing agreement or any part of its annexation is valid, in case the Imperial Government of Iran wants to recruit other foreign staff for doing any service which may concern the Imperial Iranian Armed Forces, the appropriate authorities of the U. S. Government will be informed of the matter before the said service be arranged for the sake of mutual cooperation.

3 - In regard to establishment of a Naval Department of the U. S. Military Mission, one U. S. Naval Force officer is rendering service in Iran at present in accordance with employment law of the military mission and, if necessary, the number of Naval Force officers may be increased within the framework of employment law of the military mission, there is no need for another agreement.

The Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs avails itself of the opportunity to renew the assurances of its highest consideration.

Anticipated Increase in U.S. Military Personnel in Iran.

Topographical survey personnel of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers comprising approximately thirty officers and EM have been administratively attached to the U.S. Engineer District, Gulf, since 1956. The initial group constituted the operational headquarters of the 30th Engineer Battalion (Base Topographic); this was succeeded by the 329th Engineer Detachment (Geodetic Survey), also with a strength of some thirty officers and EM. This Detachment and its predecessor were brought into Iran under the terms of an agreement between the U.S. Army and the Imperial Iranian Army signed on February 10, 1955. The purpose of this agreement was to undertake a joint program of mapping in Iran; such a program has been underway for the past 6 years. The Embassy has now been informed by Lt. Colonel T. W. Witchurch, commanding officer of the 6th Engineer Battalion (Base Topographic) that, because progress of the joint mapping program was unsatisfactory, owing to limited number of U.S. Engineer personnel participating, it had been decided to deactivate the 329th Engineer Detachment and to replace it by the 6th Engineer Battalion, with a strength of some 300 officers and EM. The Detachment has been deactivated and an advance element of the 6th Engineer Battalion, approximately 50 officers and EM, is now in Iran, with components in Tehran and in the provinces.

The Embassy has obtained from the officer commanding the detachment of the 6th Engineer Battalion copies of the following documents: a) "Cooperative Arrangement Between the Imperial Iranian Army and the United States Army for the Accomplishment of Aerial Photography, Geodetic Control and Mapping of Iran" dated February 10, 1955 and signed by Lt. General Hedayat, then Chief of the Supreme Commander's Staff, IIA, and Major General John M. Willems, then Acting Assistant Chief of Staff, G-2, U.S. Army; b) an undated "Memorandum Understanding - Geodetic Control Work in Iran, between AMS USA and the Geographic Division, IIA", signed by Brigadier General Nowtash, IIA, and Colonel J. D. Abell, Army Map Service; c) a memorandum summarizing the negotiations leading to the joint U.S. Army - Iranian Army undertaking and giving a detailed chronology of the actions taken to activate this project. Copies of these three documents are enclosed with this despatch.

It will be noted that the "Cooperative Arrangement" does not specify the number of U.S. military personnel to be engaged in the undertaking, whereas paragraphs 1b (2) and (3) of the "Memorandum of Understanding" state that the U.S. Army will be responsible for "furnishing of the project engineers who will have full authority to direct the prosecution of the work" and for "furnishing 15 to 20 other American technicians as required." The document containing the chronology of the preliminary negotiations contains the notation (paragraph 5 (a)) that "on January 18, 1956 agreement was reached in Iran to allow some 30 personnel into Iran." There is no other record available here concerning the number of U.S. personnel to be sent to Iran for the joint mapping project. Lt. Colonel Hitchurch states that he is under orders to state the 6th Engineer Battalion (now completing a project in Libya) into Iran by increments, and that it is anticipated that the entire battalion will be here some time in May or June of 1962. He has no information concerning formal U.S.-Iranian arrangements for the acceptance in Iran of his unit, although he has confirmed that Major General Bohm, Chief, Geographic Division, IIA, is aware of this plan and welcomes it.

Lt. Colonel Hitchurch recently called on the Ambassador and provided him with the substance of the information set forth above. He explained that all personnel of his unit would ostensibly be functioning in the capacity of advisors and would not wear insignia identifying them as members of a U.S. troop unit. He added that with the exception of some twelve families of personnel to be stationed in Tehran, there would be no dependents accompanying his unit. The Ambassador pointed out that an influx of three hundred additional U.S. military personnel in Iran could pose a considerable public relations problem and expressed the hope that careful screening and orientation of the 6th Engineer Battalion's personnel could be carried out in advance of arrival here.

On September 16, Lt. Colonel Hubbard, Office of the Inspector General, U.S. Corps of Engineers, called on an Embassy officer, who observed to him that the plan to despatch the 6th Engineer Battalion to Iran came as somewhat of a surprise to the Embassy. Lt. Colonel Hubbard undertook to inquire into coordination of this matter upon his return to Washington.

The Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs presents its compliments to the Embassy of the United States of America and pursuant to the Note No. 1344 dated June 14, 1961 and with reference to the conference held in the presence of the representative of the Ministry of War and Mr. Oulashin, the First Secretary of the Embassy, it has the honor to state that according to the agreement by the Ministry of War:

1 - In case the military advisors personally sign the payroll, there will be no legal impediment to payment of the salary by the Iranian Government even though they should want to turn over all of their salary, after receipt of the payment, to the chief of the advisory mission and/or to the American Embassy, and/or they may sign the respective payroll and request that the payment be made by the Iranian authorities.

2 - Concerning Article 24 and the matter of the Naval Advisor, the agreement and arrangement previously made is to remain in force.

In view of the foregoing, it is requested that in case the above views are agreeable, the Ministry be kindly advised so that necessary action may be taken for payment of salaries of the respective officers and warrant officers as of the date of announcement of the agreement.

MEMORANDUM OF LAW

21 October 1963

Question: Is the Agreement between the United States of America and Iran in regard to the Military Mission to Iran in effect?

Discussion: Article 3 of the basic Agreement provides that if the Government of Iran desires that the services of the Mission be extended beyond the stipulated time, it should make a written proposal to that effect prior to September 21, 1948. The United States agrees to act (underscoring supplied) upon such proposal prior to December 21, 1948. Although no record exists in this office, it is assumed that such proposals have been made in the past and accordingly, acted upon by the United States.

The meaning of the term "act upon" is ambiguous, but very probably it means in this instance to either ratify or formalize the Agreement or to take positive disaffirmation action.

It is my opinion that the Treaty is in force and that it has been in effect since its initial formalization, regardless of the subsequent lack of attendant formalities.

This opinion is based on the following rationale:

Treaties are primarily consensual, i.e., they are in effect because the two contracting parties desire that they be in effect, regardless of formalities. For example: This treaty provides for termination in one of several ways, including a withdrawal of the Mission by the United States. It is significant that the United States has not taken any of these positive steps to disaffirm their position in this country. Further, there has been a statement by the Government of Iran that it is extending the terms of the Agreement through March, 1964. Although there has been no formalization or written acceptance of a continuation of the treaty by the United States, our continued presence here is an implied ratification with the terms of the treaty remaining in force as they were originally written. Further, even if we assume for the sake of argument that the termination of the treaty was self-executory, it may be said to have been reinstated by consent of the parties. This process is known in international law as redintegration. This process is usually invoked where treaties have been cancelled through the outbreak of war and where the parties wish to reinstate the acceptable provisions of the previous treaties. While this is not the instant case, I believe the principle is applicable by analogy. You will note that the primary factor is the mutual consent of the contracting parties and not the formalization of the treaty itself. (See Oppenheim's International Law, 1955 Edition, Page 950.)

MEMORANDUM OF CONVERSATION

PLACE : Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Office of Director, Passport Division

TIME : May 14, 1964

PARTICIPANTS: Director Abdol-Hossein Ashtiani, his Assistant Sadegi, Consul Bolster AS

When Mr. Ashtiani got around to asking me what business I had, I explained that I had come to request action in registering the passports of Americans and third country nationals which have been in the Foreign Ministry for several months. Most of the people concerned work for Gulf District Engineers directly or as sub-contractors, so I referred Ashtiani and Sadegi to the Military Construction arrangements as contained in the Embassy's note 396 of September 19, 1956, asking that the passports be registered by the Foreign Ministry as had previously been the practice. They explained that service passports of Americans, or passports of third country nationals, would have to be registered by the Police. I referred them to Ministry of Foreign Affairs note 476 dated April 9, 1964 which stated there had been "no changes" in the registration procedures, adding that there apparently had been a change. Ashtiani agreed that the April 9 note was contradictory. Ashtiani himself suggested that the passports on hand (which had meanwhile been brought in front of us by Sadegi) could be temporarily registered until the matter was resolved, and I readily agreed. Sadegi was not in favor of this move, and suggested that the passports be sent to the Police for action. He said he had contacted the Police, but the matter of registration was brought up and the Police had not agreed to accept the passports without further documentation. Neither official was able to produce a document showing that the Iranian Government had accepted (or rejected) the "Military Construction Agreements", and they asked me to write a note giving proof of Iranian acceptance. I replied that I would be happy to do so, but that some interim method of registering the passports would be appreciated so that they could be returned to their owners. Sadegi said he would explore such a possibility with the Police. (I had the impression when I left that nothing would be done until I wrote the requested note.)

No. 539

The Embassy of the United States of America presents the compliments to the Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs and has the honor to refer to the Imperial Ministry's Note No. 285/12/1964 dated April 29, 1964 regarding the registration of regular passports of United States and third-country contractors, subcontractors, civilian employees, and their dependents connected with the Gulf District, Corps of Engineers.

As the Ministry is aware, registration of such passports has been accomplished since 1956 through the Ministry in accordance with the terms of the Military Construction Arrangement which was approved and accepted by the Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs in the Note No. 514 of September 19, 1954.

Section four of the above agreement reads as follows:

" The District Engineer shall have the right to select and engage such corporations, companies, partnerships, or individuals (hereinafter referred to as "Contractors") as he may deem appropriate for the purpose of carrying out his functions as contemplated by this Arrangement. Each of these Contractors (and their subcontractors) as are non-Japanese and are "Imported" into Japan by the District Engineer for the performance of work under these Arrangements, shall not be required to pay Japanese or registration fees to work in Japan, or to maintain a resident representative after completion of their contract. The Government of Japan will, without regard to nationality, persons of other than Japanese nationality imported by the District Engineer, or with his consent by his Contractors or their subcontractors, for the performance of work under these Arrangements. Any fee or charge shall be borne by the Government of Japan for the entry or exit of such imported persons or for quarantine, work permits or residence permits. Visas will be given automatically by the Foreign Ministry on receipt from the Ministry of War of lists of such persons which the latter shall forward upon their receipt from the District Engineer."

Section six of the above-mentioned Military Construction Arrangements states:

" The District Engineer and his employees (including their dependents) will be accorded the same privileges as those accorded to other technical personnel of the Government of the United States when the Government of Japan receives under Paragraph 7 of the Mutual Defense Assistance Agreement of May 23, 1956."

In the Note of April 29, 1964, the Ministry has stated that no changes are contemplated in the passport registration procedure, but at the same time, the passports in question shall henceforth be referred to the Central Police for registration.

In accordance with the cited excerpt from the Military Construction Agreement of 1956, the Embassy has the honor to request that it would be appropriate that passports of United States and third-country contractors, subcontractors, civilian employees, and their dependents, be registered by the Imperial Ministry of Foreign Affairs as has been the case in the past.

The Embassy avails itself of this opportunity to refer to the Imperial Ministry the assurances of its highest consideration.

SUBJECT: REGISTRATION OF US AND THIRD COUNTRY CONTRACT EMPLOYEES OF GULF DISTRICT.

FONOFF has suggested from time to time that it would like to have us register the passports of subject persons directly with the police, rather than thru FONOFF as at present. Such change would presumably mean these contract employees and their dependents would have to obtain residence and work permits and would also be liable for income taxes and perhaps other obligations.

I made formal inquiry of FONOFF in the matter and received an ambiguous reply stating (1) no change in the present system would be made, and (2) subject passports should henceforth be referred to the police authorities for registration.

This issue needs clarifying. Attached Note is suggested.

SUBJECT: PASSPORT SERVICES FROM FONOFF

We have been experiencing frustrating delays in obtaining the new FONOFF registration cards for US official passport holders. The FONOFF also continues to resist in registering third country nationals on contract to US/AID and Gulf District affiliates. The long delays in getting passports returned cause repeated crises for persons wishing to travel, particularly in emergency cases. A lot of extra work and inconvenience results when documents are mislaid in the FONOFF.

Two Notes (May 18 and May 20) have been sent relating to the problem and remain unanswered. Copies are attached.

Do you think it would help if you mentioned the matter at some higher level?
