An emissary of Horia Sima, Iron Guard leader, recently approached Professor Virgil Veniamin, National Peasant leader [] with the statement that Sima wishes to "retire". The Iron Guard would then be directed by a Committee of three persons. Veniamin was informed that the Iron Guard wished to collaborate in exile with the National Peasant Party and participate in emigre activities. According to the emissary, the Iron Guard would not request representation on the National Committee but would cooperate with that group. Veniamin reportedly did not consider this approach by the Iron Guard to be sincere and was evasive in his replies.
