SITUATION INFORMATION REPORT

16 May 1968

Spot Report

Th [redacted] advised the CIA Security Duty Office on the afternoon of 15 May that the American Nazi Party had announced at a press conference that date that the name of the organization had been changed to the National Socialist White Peoples Party, with offices located at 806 North Taylor Street, Arlington, Virginia. The Party spokesman announced that membership has increased 15% since the assassination of George Lincoln Rockwell. The Party indicated it would hold a rally at the Sylvan Theater (Washington Monument Grounds) on 31 May, and had made plans to take an active role in the Washington area this summer. The Party advised it had every intention of controlling the situation if it gets out of hand.¹

Another source of information advised on 15 May 1968 that although the American Nazi Party had established new temporary quarters at 806 N. Taylor Street, Arlington, and mentioned its possible intention to move to Washington, D. C., the actual location of the new headquarters is at 2507 Franklin Road, Arlington. The new installation, according to the source, operates under the cover name of the "Asgard Press." It has been determined that Robert A. Lloyd and William Pierce who rented the Franklin Road address under the name of "Asgard Press," had also rented the Taylor Street address in the name of the ANP. The Arlington County Police Department has confirmed the Franklin Road address as the new ANP headquarters.
