[REDACTED] Child Protective Services (CPS), Post Office Box 977, 504 North 6th Street, Waco, Texas 76703, telephone number (817) 756-5571, was contacted at her place of employment. After having been advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and of the nature of the interview, [REDACTED] provided the following information:

[REDACTED] in charge of the investigation conducted on a religious sect in Waco, Texas known as the "Branch Davidian, Seventh Day Adventist." An individual by the name of VERNON HOWELL, also known as DAVID KORESH, is the leader of the organization. Allegations had been made in the past by several ex-members that HOWELL was planning a mass murder/suicide event. Allegations were also made towards HOWELL in that he was holding several members of the sect under conditions which may constitute violations of Federal law pertaining to involuntary servitude and slavery.

b7C The CPS was brought into the religious sect due to allegations from ex-members of child neglect and abuse as well as two other investigators [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] were involved in the investigation. Interviews were conducted with several members of the organization, children as well as adults, and also HOWELL himself. Those members interviewed indicated to the CPS that all individuals on the premises were staying with the religious sect on their own accord.

Through observation and interview on both announced and unannounced visits, the Department of Human Services (DHS), CPS had no indication that any children or adults were being held against their will by HOWELL.

Religious group denies mass suicide rumor

By MARK ENGLAND
Tribune-Herald staff writer

The leader of a religious group in Elk scotched Friday at a rumor that he and his followers plan to commit suicide this weekend.

David Korosh, who used to go by the name Vernon Wayne Howell, said the Branch Davidian Seventh-day Adventists have merely gathered at their acre site 12 miles outside Waco to observe Passover, the Jewish holiday that commemorates the deliverance of the ancient Hebrews from slavery in Egypt.

He called the rumor "hogwash."

"Hey, I'm not ready to die," Korosh said. "It's all lies. Every year we've gathered here for Passover. Every year we're spending a lot of money. A lot of people are putting time and effort in," he said. "When we got this place back from George (Hoden) it was terrible. So we've been working three years out in California and other places to raise money to get this place back on its feet.

"I've got the water well going, coming in. I mean... Two weeks in a row we're supposed to be committing suicide. I wish they'd get their stories straight."

Rumors of a mass suicide apparently started in Australia, a country Korosh visited to gather new followers. The Melbourne Herald-Sun printed an aricle this week quoting relatives saying some Australian Branch Davidians have sold their property and called to say good-bye.

The relatives said Korosh had interpreted the book of Revelation in the Bible to say a certain number of people must become martyrs before the Second Coming of Christ.

Korosh said that a rumor started by a former Australian member to smear the Branch Davidians.

"The end of time is a process," Korosh said. "It will happen when it happens. But the truth pertaining to the end of time is now. We've got to know what God requires of us in this generation."

Just before informed what the word of God has stated in the prophecies, you know with Christ, He will allow a sign of judgment on the world. That's all we teach."

Perry Adams, a longtime Branch Davidian, said the rumor exasperated him.

"It's a goddamn insulting, but it's just crap," Jones said.

The rumor is about Passover, but it has frightened relatives of the Branch Davidians, though.

Jane Craddock of Melbourne said she talked recently with her son, Graham, a Branch Davidian, who said the religious group's site, called New Mountain Camp, is in a rank, Graham.

"Craddock said to 'He said to remain calm. There's nothing to worry about. The rumor is just a rumor. Please see DAVIDIANS, page 2C."

DAVIDIANS

But Craddock said the rumors still upset her.

"I don't know the man," she said. "But he seems to be able to tell Graham what to do, and Graham does it."

Lisa Gent of Wheelers Hill is a former Branch Davidian. Her daughter, Nicole, and son, Peter, still belong to the group.

They won't speak to her, however, because she left the Branch Davidians, Gent said.

"We're worn out and devastated worrying," she said. "It's on our minds all the time."

The McLennan County Sheriff's Department sent a deputy to visit the group after hearing of the Australian newspaper article.

A sheriff's department spokesman said there was also a rumor suicides would occur if authorities visited New Mount Carmel.

"We went out," the spokesman said. "No one died. We talked to them for a few hours."

"They've got a right to believe what they want to believe. I think the unknown is causing them a lot of problems. People don't understand their religion."

The rumors also led a representative of the Seventh-day Adventist Church to contact the Branch Davidians. The group is careful to point out there is no relationship between them and the Branch Davidians, an Adventist spinoff.

Larry Guinn, pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist Church of Waco, said he contacted the Branch Davidians out of concern.

"We talked to their leader," Guinn said. "As best we can determine, this is just a malicious rumor started by someone in Australia."

V.T. Houteff started the Branch Davidians in 1935 at a site near Lake Waco. After Houteff's death, the group moved to Elk.

Houteff's wife, Florence, predicted the kingdom of God would be established in 1959. When her prediction failed to pass, the group lost many followers.

In recent years, the antics of George Roden put an unwelcome spotlight on the Branch Davidians. Among other things, Roden filed a motion with the Texas Supreme Court, the 10th Court of Appeals and the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans urging God to inflict AIDS and herpes on the judges.

Roden also banished Koresh and his followers from New Mount Carmel and later dug up a casket and tried to resurrect the body of a Branch Davidian.

That led to a shootout between Koresh and seven of his followers and Roden. The men sneaked onto New Mount Carmel to try and photograph the casket in hopes of getting authorities to act against Roden, they said.

Roden claimed they came to kill him.

Now Roden is in prison on a murder conviction, and Koresh and his followers have New Mount Carmel to themselves.

Koresh, who changed his name to pursue a music career, said he doesn't know when the end of time will come and is just trying to live his life so he's ready for that occurrence.

Davidians observe Passover

More than 150 people gathered in Elk Saturday as the Branch Davidian Seventh-day Adventists observed Passover, the Jewish holiday that commemorates the deliverance of the Hebrews from slavery in Egypt.

Rumors of a mass suicide by those attending proved to be false.

"People are here for life," said Steven Schneider of LaVerne, Calif., who joined others at the New Mount Carmel compound 12 miles outside of Waco.

"You mention a word like death, and I'm out of here myself," Schneider said.

The Melborne Herald-Sun in Australia printed an article this week quoting relatives saying some Australian Branch Davidians have sold their property and called to say good-bye.

Leaders of the religious group called the rumor "hogwash" and said it was created by a former member trying to smear the group's name.

Schneider said he didn't think the rumor had any affect on Saturday's event.

"No, not at all," he said. "No one has even bothered with that."

CIVIL RIGHTS

This ISS matter from Texas apparently came to the FBI's attention through the Congressman Fred Upton's office (MI). Congressman Upton received material suggesting that members of a religious group at a commune near Waco, Texas, were planning a mass suicide and practiced involuntary servitude and slavery. We did not receive the material which originally made these allegations.

The local Child Protective Services unit of the Texas Department of Public Health investigated the commune and its treatment of children. The FBI has submitted its report. The CPS report summarizes CPS interviews with residents of the commune (approximately 10 adults) and with children.

(approximately 10 children). These reports show no evidence of any involuntary servitude by any child or adult. There is no evidence of any extensive work by the children, nor of any child abuse. No actions were taken by CPS to remove any children from the commune. The commune's leader said that there was a person in Michigan who was spreading rumors about the group.

This investigation has shown no evidence of ISS. There are no additional areas of potentially fruitful investigation which are apparent. I recommend that this matter be closed. The FBI report indicates that the U.S. Attorney's office has declined prosecution.

b7C [REDACTED] According to the letter, plans for self-destruction or sacrifices were to take place during Passover. A review of this letter would indicate that the time frame of the alleged acts of self-destruction would have been between the date [REDACTED] letter was written (March 17, 1992) and Easter 1992.

Appropriate personnel have been notified in McLennan County, (Waco) Texas in the event that subject attempted such plans. These agencies include the McLennan County Sheriff's Department, Texas Department of Health and Human Services, Texas Department of Public Safety and the Texas Rangers Service. As of February 23, 1993, the Office of the U.S. Attorney, Western District of Texas, Waco Branch was also contacted where Assistant United States Attorney JOHN PHINIZY was briefed regarding the facts developed in this case.

To date, no information has been developed to verify the accuracy of the allegations. Law enforcement authorities with possible violations regarding this matter have been re-notified and appropriate contact will be maintained to ensure monitoring of this matter for possible federal violations.
